The Post-Dispatch Continues Its Startling Revelations.

Testimony of John H. Maxon and Alex. Kinkead.

Gov. Crittenden and His Method of Demanding Blank Resignations.

Why He Told Maxon to Let Up on the Gamblers.

Wm. B. Ryder, Late of the People's Car Line, a Figure.

He is Sent as an Emissary of the Ring to John H. Maxon.

Testimony Throwing a New and Peculiar Light on the Governor—Something Every Citizen of St. Louis Should Read.

To-day the POST-DISPATCH prints the testimony of Mr. John H. Maxon before the last Grand Jury, and a portion more of Mr. Kinkead's. Their sworn evidence before the secret tribunal was as follows:

John H. Maxon.

John H. Maxon, being duly sworn, testified: Examined by Mr. Lodge.

Q.—Mr. Maxon, you were formerly a Police Commissioner in this city, were you not? A.—I was.

Q.—Do you know Gov. Crittenden? A.—I do.

Q.—A short time prior to your resignation as Police Commissioner, did you see him here in St. Louis? A.—I saw him a week previous to my resignation.

Q.—You, Mr. Cupples and others had been engaged in prosecuting the gamblers in this city, had you not? A.—Yes, sir; we tried to, at least and they were prosecuted, and I think a number of them convicted and in jail before I left. There were indictments against every one, I think; some were in jail, and some pleaded guilty, and I believe there was one trial and conviction.

Q.—Did you have a conversation with Gov. Crittenden in which in substance he gave you to understand that he wanted you, as Police Commissioner, to let up on the gamblers? A.—I had a conversation with him, but nothing of that kind occurred at that meeting; previous to that—what month I cannot say—but several weeks preceding that there was a telegram sent to my house, arriving there at 10 or 11 o'clock at night, requesting my presence to meet him at the Southern Hotel. I didn't get home that night until after my wife sent for me and failed to find me; it was 11 or 12 o'clock when I got home. On arriving home my wife showed me the telegram, but it was so late that I did not go to the Southern Hotel until the next morning, and I got there before he was up. I had a conversation with him at that time, but I cannot repeat the exact words.

Q.—Give us the substance of it? A.—He said in substance that Charley Johnson was a great enemy of ours and did everything he could to hurt us; that it would be a great satisfaction to Mr. Johnson to have these gamblers prosecuted, and if carried through to conviction it would all redound to the glory of Mr. Johnson. I cannot say whether he said it was his desire that we should not prosecute the gamblers, or whether we ought not to prosecute them, just because it would be such a gratification to Mr. Johnson; that was about the purport of the conversation between Governor Crittenden and myself. I never repeated the conversation to but one person. I got the impression that Governor Crittenden thought that I would mention it to the other Commissioners, but I didn't do it; I don't think I mentioned it to the Mayor; I wanted to find out what he was driving at, or whether there was anything new; I didn't think so much of it then as I did afterwards.

Q.—Now, Mr. Maxon, can you approximate about how near that was to the time that the Governor interceded by his pardoning power and pardoned the gamblers out of jail? A.—I know of nothing by which I can place that time.

Q.—I will ask you this, and perhaps it will refresh your mind a little: Very shortly after his wholesale pardon of the gamblers, the three Commissioners, yourself, Mr. Simmons and Cupples, resigned, did you not? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Can you fix how near it was to the time of your resignation? A.—My impression is that it was from four to six weeks.

Q.—What caused you to think of it afterwards, particularly? A.—I could not exactly see what he was getting at, you know, when he was talking to me. I didn't repeat it to the Commissioners, because I wanted to retain their confidence in the Governor, and the reason I thought of it afterwards was a conclusion of my own. I thought more of the conversation afterwards because subsequent development gave it a significance it would not otherwise have had.

Q.—What were the particular matters that made you think of it afterwards? A.—The fact of his pardoning gamblers.

Q.—Did you have any conversation with him after that bearing upon that subject, at all? A.—The week preceding the pardoning of the gamblers he called at my house in the evening, and I thought I would sound him a little and see how he felt and what he had to say; and in that conversation, which has been made public a good many times, he said that Cupples informed him that Fate could not have been convicted and that was the excuse he gave for pardoning the gamblers. You recollect what the press said about that, and my conversation was merely to get some reply from him, but he said nothing. I wanted to get at what he thought about it. I suppose you are aware that the trouble with the Fate matter was the property. He claimed he had nothing to do with it as his brother owned it, which we thought was the question in the case, whether we would be able to prove that.

Q.—And he made no reply to your question? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you have any conversation with him on the subject at any other time? A.—I never have since that evening.

Q.—How long did you serve in the Board then, Mr. Maxon? A.—About one year and seven months.

Q.—And this conversation that you have spoken of as happening at the Southern Hotel, was four or six weeks prior to your resignation? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—The first conversation was about the time of your appointment? A.—It was while I was in Jefferson City.

Q.—Were there any more intermediate conversations with him or he with you, prior to the one you had at the Southern Hotel, when you went there in response to a telegram bearing upon that subject? A.—Nothing further, except he said he was satisfied and would trust it to us.

Q.—You can answer this question or not, as you like: Did his pardoning of the gamblers have anything to do with the resignation of you gentlemen? A.—It had with my resignation.

Q.—That was the same in regard to Mr. Simmons and Mr. Cupples, was it not? A.—It was so stated by them in my presence.

Q.—That is all I wish to ask. If you wish to make any further statement we would be glad to hear it? A.—There is one statement I would like to make to this Grand Jury. I don't know whether it will do any good, but it may lead to something further. I was approached once by a gentleman in this town—I suppose because he was very intimately acquainted with me—by the name of W. B. Ryder, at that time secretary of the People's Railway Company. He asked me if any arrangements could be made by which we could let up on the gamblers. I requested him to tell me who it was that requested him to speak to me about it, and he said he would see in a day or two if there was any objection to his telling me. The result was that I never got this man's name that requested it. I have often asked Mr. Ryder since who it was that asked him to see whether it could be done.

Q.—That was Mr. Ryder, at that time Secretary of the People's Railway? A.—Yes, sir; he is now in Swift's office. I never did find out who the man was that requested him to see me, and it would be some gratification to me if Mr. Ryder had it to tell to somebody, if not to me.

Q.—Do you recollect when this occurred? A.—It occurred, I should judge, three or four months after my appointment.

Q.—Do you recollect the time and place? A.—I do not recollect the time but I do the place; it occurred in the Merchants' Exchange.

Q.—This was after the amendment of the gambling law, making it a felony? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Do you remember the year? A.—It was the year after I was appointed—1881 or 1882; sometime in the spring or summer. The law had gone into effect, I believe, the previous June.

Q.—If you have any other statement you would like to make we would like to hear it. A.—Mayor Ewing may know what I said to him better than myself; my memory is not as good as his about the matter, because I told it to him when it was fresh in my mind.

Q.—Do you know Mr. McChesney? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did he ever speak to you about the matter? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Do you remember any other person speaking to you or attempting to speak to you about it? A.—No, sir.

Q.—[By a juror.] Have you heard why Dan Kerwin resigned? A.—From facts which I have gathered my own mind is made up as to why he resigned.

Q.—What are these facts concerning that resignation? A.—It was an agreement that Mr. Campbell should be removed and they, quarrelled over his successor.

R.—Then you can tell us nothing about that? A.—I don't know about that only by hearsay.

Q.—One thing leads to another, that is what we are after now: We have some evidence in that direction and we want some more. What is said here never goes any further. A.—I picked that up a little at a time.

Q.—From whom did you learn those facts? A.—Well I cannot say, it is like gathering a drop here and a drop there, and form your own conclusions.

Q. [by a juror].—They could not agree upon a successor. Who were the parties that they were fighting over that they could not agree upon as the successor to Campbell? A.—Well, Harrigan and Taaffe I guess or nobody but Harrigan for Kerwin as I understand was afraid of Harrigan.

Q.—Afraid of him; has he got some hold upon him? A.—That is the general supposition.

Q.—Do you know what it is? A.—I do not.

Q.—Do you know who it is reported wanted Taaffe? Who wanted Harrigan? A.—I believe they all wanted Harrigan, but Kerwin. There was power enough to elect Harrigan over Kerwin.

Q.—You said something about an agreement to get rid of Campbell. What did you mean by the word agreement? A.—Nothing only in a caucus they said he had got to go.

Q.—Did you know anything about a meeting held outside the board room at which that agreement was found? A.—No. I know nothing more than rumor; I had heard some rumor about that.

Q.—Did you ever hear Mr. Caruth express himself in reference to Col. Campbell? A.—I understood that they all at that caucus said that Mr. Campbell had to go—that they were disappointed in him.

Q.—Did you ever hear what their objections to Campbell were? A.—Couldn't use him, I suppose.

Q.—Couldn't use him in what respect? A.—Well, I guess it is probable they made some orders as Commissioners to him as Chief in regard to the hold over and some other matters, and he did not heed them Chief Campbell would be a better witness than I am, because he was a participant and knows all about it; I only get it from hearsay.

Q.—You formed your opinion then from scraps of information you picked up in different ways? A.—It is my impression that I asked Chief Campbell if it was true. It has been stated that I had been caucusing with him, and I never have spoken to him but three times since he was elected Chief, and twice was on official business and once when I met him when I asked him that question.

Q.—Was that in reference to allowing Turner to get a list of the hold-over and the amount of money that the prisoners had? A.—Yes, sir, and then another was in reference to titles being made Chief of Detectives.

Q.—Did you understand that Mr. Kerwin had engaged in that project, too. A.—I never heard of Mr. Kerwin giving these orders.

Q.—Did you ever talk with Mr. Kerwin about the subject at all or talk with him concerning—A.—(Interrupting)—I have never seen him since his resignation.

Q.—Did you talk prior to that? A.—I talked with him about executing the laws generally, not specially about the Sunday law.

Q.—You had no talk with him with reference to whether Campbell was disappointing him or not? A.—No, sir, I never mentioned a word to the Board about any member of the force, or anything of that kind.

Q.—Did you know, or did you hear anything about whether there was a blank resignation of Mr. Kerwin's or any other of the Police Commissioners in any one's hands other than the Governor's? A.—Nothing, only rumor.

Q.—Did you ever talk with Mr. Butler or Mr. McEntire, or they with you, about the matter? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Did you know this man, Senator Hathaway? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you ever talk with him on the subject, or he with you? A.—No, sir.

Q.—Do you know any other fact or information that you think would lead to any result? If so, we would like you to state. In regard to blank resignations, it has been stated that it was customary for Police Commissioners to have their resignations in the hands of the Governor, or some one else for him; do you know of your own knowledge anything about that, about either Kinkead's, Kerwin's or Boland's? A.—Kinkead's and Boland's were the first I ever heard of.

Q.—Did Boland have a blank resignation. A.—Well, I suppose there was.

Q.—Eh? A.—I suppose there was.

Q.—And what is the information you have upon that subject? A.—Well, it would be a long story and you might object to hearing it.

Q. By Lodge—If the jury would like it I would. Juror: There is no objection, we have had some literature of that kind already, and we want some more. A.—The Governor and I talked about the Police Commissioners before the election; I told him that I didn't want any police commissionership, "I didn't want anybody but an honest man," He sent for me the day before his inauguration. I went to his house and he said nothing about it. We had a car up at Jefferson City, and after dinner I went down to the car. Mr. Tutt came down and told me who the police commissioners were to be.

Q.—Who did? A.—Mr. Thomas E. Tutt. Said I, "Mr. Tutt, what in the world has po sessed the Governor ever to appoint these men?" "Are you certain?" said he. "Yes, I just had a conversation with Governor Crittenden, in which he said these were to be the men." Said I, "Are they?" Said he, "They are,".

Q.—Who were they? A.—Green and Kinkead.

Q.—There were only two, then? Green was one of them. What Green was that? A.—Charlie Green. Said I, "Green will make a good one if he will accept," but, said I, "How about Boland? I don't know whether there is anything wrong in Boland, but the atmosphere was a little impure when he was on the force. I don't think it would be a good appointment." "Well," said he, "he is requested by Overstolz." Said I, "I've got a good deal of faith in Mr. Overstolz' opinion, and if he wants Mr. Boland I have nothing to say, but I am afraid we won't get along well." "Well," said he, "Get rid of him, then." Said I, "That is not easily done." "Well," said he, "he is going to have their resignations before the commissions are issued."

Q.—Who said that? A.—He told me that on a sleeping-car at Jefferson City. I was so disgusted at that, that I didn't go to the reception, but stayed in the sleeping car and played poker. I came home and that was the first time I ever heard about the resignations. Gov. Crittenden didn't ask me for any resignation when I was appointed and I didn't give him any. What I have related is a conversation I had with Mr. Tutt. It was with me that Mr. Tutt came to St. Louis to get those resignations.

Q.—What was the Board at that time? A.—It was Finney, Moffet and the old war-horse Armstrong and Duke, I think. Armstrong and Duke expired.

Q.—By limitation? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—What two were to take their place? What relationship did Tutt hold to the Governor at that time? A.—Friendly.

Q.—Where did Mr. Tutt live? A.—In St. Louis.

Q.—You never saw that resignation did you? A.—No, sir. I dissolved partnership with the outfit then.

Q.—But you were appointed after that. A.—Yes, sir, I met the Governor once in a while after that, but we held no conversation. I think, after I was appointed. He sent Hurd here to try to get him (Crittenden) out of his troubles. At that time it was quite a question whether respectable men would take a position on the Board

Q.—Did you hear from Mr. Tutt or any one else who was supposed to hold Boland's resignation? A.—I dropped there; that was my last.

Q.—Well, Boland was appointed; Mr. Green, I understand, kicked, and would not sign a resignation? A.—He would not give them his resignation, and the consequence was Mr. Boland was appointed and Mr. Green was not; Mr. Kinkead was also appointed.

Q.—When you went into the Board, Boland and Kinkead were there? A.—They were in the Board.

Q.—And you and Mr. Cupples and Mr. Simmons took the place of Mr. Moffett and Mr. Finney and Mr. Armstrong? A.—No sir.

Q.—Duke's? A.—No, sir; Boland and Kinkead took the positions of Armstrong and Duke.

Q.—Do you know the number where Mr. Ryder lives? A.—No, sir; it is on Eighth street; crossing Eighth and Pine. He is Swift's clerk.

Witness (to a juror)—You remember Boland's resignation came in with the appointment.

Juror—Yes; I was in the Senate at the time.

Alex. Kinkead.

The following is a continuation of Mr. Alex Kinkead's sworn testimony before the Grand Jury, the preceding portion of which was published in last Tuesday's issue of the POST-DISPATCH:

Q.—Tell the jury whether you have reason to suspect, or whether you know the majority of the Board, or any member of the Board, are in sympathy with the gamblers and opposed to the enforcement of the gambling law? A.—That has a double meaning to it. There are a great many men, while they are not opposed to gambling, are in favor of enforcing it in their official capacity.

Q.—What I mean by gambling, I mean those professionals who attempted to run the town. A. The Board has endeavored to enforce it to the letter, and that was the instruction given to the Chief the other day by Dr. Lutz, and also Mr. Caruth spoke very warmly about it.

Q.—Have you heard any expression in the Board that it would look like asking Col. Campbell whether or not if Boyd was appointed he would interfere with him? A.—No, I never have heard of that at all.

Q.—Outside or inside the board? A.—No, sir. I have not heard. If anything occurred of that nature, as I said before, after that little conference that we held on the 1st of April, I got very indignant because what I had said that night was told me on the street the next day, and I said they could hold their caucuses if they pleased, and since then I have not been to any of them.

Q.—And that is the only one you attended? A.—I attended one more prior to that. That was at my house while I was sick, about electing a secretary.

Q.—What do you know with reference to any corruption on the part of any officer or member of the Board in connection with this gambling business, or the appointment of any officer in connection with this case? A.—I don't know anything at all with regard to any corruption of any members, or any contract with any of the gamblers: I was going to make this explanation. A great many of you are aware the gamblers never work directly at the object they want to accomplish. They generally shoot over two or three men's heads to get at the game they want to kill. I don't know that they are using their influence. I don't know that they have, only this: Mr. McChesney—of course he has used his influence, as I know, through other parties about the appointment to the stables here. They went so far as to ask me to appoint one or two parties in the place—that is, it came through another party to me.

Q.—What do you know of the opening and closing of Lyons' place? A.—Not a thing, sir. It was open until we got on to it and got evidence against him and it was closed up.

Q.—Do you know how long that was? A.—I don't. That part of the business came directly under Mr. Kerwin's attention, the vice-president. I had my hands full on the outside.

Q.—Do you know of any specific act, direct or indirect, of Mr. Butler, Joseph H. McEntire or Mr. McChesney in relation to these gamblers? A.—I do not. Since that occurred I really don't know much outside. If there is any consultation occurred, I haven't been invited in.

Q.—The second part of my question you have not answered yet—whether any officers of this Board have received any bribe or been corrupted in any way in the execution of their official acts? A.—Not as I know. I don't think there is. I don't think there has been any man that I know of that has been bribed in any way.

Q.—Mr. Kinkead, now come right down to business. Have you ever stated to anybody that Dr. Lutz had received directly or indirectly that $100 for the appointment of a police officer? A.—I stated to a certain party that I heard of it.

Q.—State exactly, if you please, what you did state to that party. A.—Well, that is just one of those questions that I don't know exactly how to answer. That I don't wish to criminate anybody, because I have doubts in my own mind in regard to the facts in the case, but a party told me that another party asked for certain moneys, that is for money for putting a man on the force, stating that he wanted it for members of the Board. I said "for the members?" "No," he said "for Dr. Lutz." I said "I don't believe anything of the kind." That is all I stated in regard to it. I don't know that Dr. Lutz knows anything about the thing, about that part of it. The man that went on at my solicitation, I promised to put him on and had promised to put him on six monthes before when I had a position to put him in. I don't know the truth of the statement that $100 was ever offered to Dr. Lutz.

Q If you was told that you had made the following statement to a third party, please state whether or not the statement is true, "Mr. Kinkead told me that Mr. Lutz had received $100 to put some men on the force. The man was put on and Mr. Lutz was paid $100 by a third party. Afterwards a demand was made for another $100 and the party came to me (that is yourself) and I told him not to pay another cent. And he further said that the letters in connection with it are in the hands of a certain party, but he did not tell me who those parties are?" A.—A part of that is correct and a part is not. The first part of it is not correct. I did not state that Dr. Lutz ever got the money that had been paid. I stated that I had been told it was gotten for him, but I didn't know whether it ever reached him or not, and I had my doubts whether it reached him. That is what I stated in regard to that. I did state that a party had—well, I will state this: A party came to me one day and I was instrumental in putting a man on the patrol wagon. I had tried to put him on six months previous and had failed, and I promised I would put him on the first opportunity. The patrol system I had under my control, and I failed to put this man on, but the last vacancy that occurred by this man (Sullivan) retiring to go into the saloon business, at a meeting of the Board I brought this matter up, and then it was the question of putting this man on, and six months before I had promised to do it and this party said it was necessary to pay the expense—not to me at all, and he stated that he had paid $100, and he said "The party wants another $100," and I said, "Don't you pay another cent. I put your son on the wagon, and don't you pay a cent to anybody; there is no charges in it at all and if you paid it get it back."

Q.—Who was this party? A.—I would prefer not to answer that.

Q.—I am sorry, but you will have to answer it. A.—Under the law, must I answer it?

Q.—Yes, sir. We are here to get facts, or it is a farce. A.—It draws innocent parties into notoriety and trouble that they would rather die than have brought on them. As you have a part of it the best way is to give it all.

Q.—That is exactly what we want. A.—I will state these facts: The young man I put on the wagon is Thomas Gunn. You know him, Mr. Sullivan, do you not. Up in North St. Louis. He has been a driver for a while, and he wanted to drive a patrol-wagon. His father came to me six months ago, and I told him I would put him on when there was a vacancy. I brought his name up, and he got only two votes and the others got three, and he didn't get on. After a while this vacancy occurred, and I stated to the members of the Board that as they had put their man on I wanted my man. There were some objections to it, but he was put on. That is, there was enough votes, without any comment, to put him on. The next day his father came to me, and said he had something to tell me. I was busy, and told him I would talk to him when I had a little more leisure. It went on two or three days and he came in again. He told me that he had gone to the party and the man told him that he had used his influence to get that man on. Well, he said he would bear whatever expense he was at in "seeing" the members.

Q.—Who stated that? A.—Mr. Gunn stated to this party who said he had influence to put a man on.

Q.—Who was that party? A.—Mr. Hugh Brady. Mr. Brady said he would go and see the members for him and see if he could get his son on, and he would see Dr. Lutz and Mr. Kerwin and Mr. Caruth; there was no use in seeing me—I was in favor of him anyway. The next day he came to me and said he was annoyed about that matter. "What is the matter, Mr. Gunn?" He said "It cost me $100, and I gave him the money, and he says the next day when I told him my son was on he demanded $200, as $100 was not enough." "Did you pay him?" I asked. "Yes, sir; I had already paid him $100." I said: "You are a fool, that is all there is about it. Don't you pay him another cent." He didn't pay it, and he got three letters from him in regard to that matter.

Q.—From whom? A.—From Mr. Brady.

Q.—Has he got those letters, do you know? A.—I think he has.

Q.—Where does he live—the father of the boy live? A.—I forget the number. He lives up on North Market street, I think, between Eighth and Ninth.

Q.—Where was this wagon running? A.—The Chestnut Street Station. This boy had been driving one of Meyers' wagons—on one of his father's wagons.

Q.—Had you any conversation with Mr. Brady about this matter? A.—No, sir. I have no recollection of seeing him about it at all. I have not seen Mr. Brady for two or three months, except the other day, I saw him as I was passing by the hotel.

Q.—Do you know of any other meetings or caucuses being held at other places that you did not attend to. A.—No, sir. I do not. I heard there were meetings held, but I don't know where or at what time.

Q.—Do you remember a meeting of the Board in which Mr. Campbell's willingness or unwillingness to take these gamblers' and follow them up was discussed, and they were surprised that he didn't tumble? A.—It was not discussed in the Board.

Q.—Did you ever hear that expression used in connection with that? A.—I did not.

Q.—Outside the Board? A.—No, sir, only what I read in the papers that arrangements had been made to let the gamblers run.

Q.—At that time that the Board were to reduce expenses by dropping some of the men, do you remember in what manner the list was made up? A.—In this way: We went over to the Council and we could not get relief and we told Col. Campbell to instruct the Captains and send us a list of the most inefficient men in their district and they did so; they sent us a list from every district.

Q.—How many names were in that list? A.—Well, I don't recollect; forty or fifty,—thirty-five. Out of that list we dropped seventeen, and that just about left us money enough to run through on.

Q.—Do you know what was done with that list by any others than a member of the Board? Submitted to any one? A.—Not that I know of.

Q.—Wasn't that list submitted to Ex-[illegible] A.—That I could not say. I had no [illegible] possession at all. I did not see it [illegible] until, it came before the Board.

Q.—Didn't that list strike you as peculiar when it came back—show party politics in it? A.—No, I think not. The list came in in general, because I knew there were several good Republicans and several good Democrats on the list. I put one man on myself. There was a case of this kind came up in my district, where there was a good man and he was a good Democrat, a special friend of mine also, and there was another man with a family a Republican, and I told them that I wanted the names changed and the man of family retained, and it was done without any comment. I don't know about the list being out. I did not see it until it came before the board. It was in the hands of the vice-president, or some of them, for several days.

Q.—Have you ever said to anybody that if you told all you knew about this police business that you would send some of these men up to the pen? A.—No, I don't think I ever said that. I have said I would like to send some of them up. I don't think I know enough to send any one to the penitentiary. I feel enough to send two or three up.

Q.—If the statement were made that you had said, in so many words, that if you told all you knew you would send some of the men up the road, meaning the penitentiary? A.—I don't remember ever making that statement.

Q.—Or that they had better keep their hands off; if they did not you would tell all you knew and send some of them up the road? A.—I don't think I know enough to send anyone up the road. I said I would like to, and I thought possibly some of them ought to be there. I said something in connection with my resignation, and in conversation with my attorney, I didn't know if I didn' come within the criminal clause of the criminal law about the date of my resignation—erased and put in, and I did say that if the matter was pushed it might make trouble. I left in December, I think, before my appointment, and the date on it was the 19th of June.

Q.—Then you swear you did not say as follows: "They had better keep their hands off me; I know a heap. I know enough to send them up the road?" A.—No. I won't swear positively I didn't say something (reflecting); that I said a great many things. You know I have worked through a great many annoyances in this matter, and I said a good many things; then, I have not, lately. I have been mad at a good many things.

THE POLICE SCANDAL.

An Injunction Wanted Against the Post-Dispatch,

But the Court Refuses to Grant It.

Gov. Crittenden Returns and is Interviewed.

A Telegram from Pate—Cleveland Will Positively Resign His Commissionership—Mayor Ewing Talks—The Latest Developments in the Police Muddle.

The excitement over the Police Board scandal and the removal of Chief Campbell had not abated this morning. It was just as freely discussed as if no day of rest had intervened. As the day progressed new incidents developed, which added fresh feel to the flames. First, it was known that Gov. Crittenden had emerged from his mysterious retirement and was a guest at the Southern Hotel. As will be seen by an interview published below, the Governor has been to Kentucky. Later the interest increased when Circuit Attorney Harris went into the courts to ask for an injunction against the POST-DISPATCH, to prevent the paper from publishing any records of the late Grand Jury that might be in the possession of the newspaper mentioned. This news spread like wild-fire, and much interest was expressed as to the result. The general opinion among all classes was that it would be a general misfortune if the courts should interfere and prevent the POST-DISPATCH from giving the public some idea of the manner in which police affairs were being managed. When the news came that the injunction had been refused, everybody seemed to be glad. Then it was announced that Cleveland had been instructed by the president of the Cass Avenue Railroad Company that he could not be a Police Commissioner and a railroad superintendent; that Crittenden and Pate had been together in Louisville, and other facts followed in quick succession. The general sentiment seemed to be that the muddle was growing more complicated. Friends of Mr. Joseph McEntire were inclined to defend him, and to state that, as far as the evidence published went, nothing had been shown to implicate him, or to prove that he had taken anything more than a warm interest in the matter. The developments of the day will be found below:

An Injunction Wanted.

Circuit Attorney Harris this morning notified the editors of the POST-DISPATCH that at 10 o'clock he would apply to Judge Amos Thayer of the Circuit Court for an injunction to restrain the publication in to-day's edition of the rest of the evidence taken before the last Grand Jury in the gambling investigation, which evidence is alleged to be in possession of the publishers of this paper. On arriving at the Court House Mr. Harris was advised by Circuit Clerk Vogel that the matter would have to take its regular turn in the assignment docket, and, after a moment's consultation with Deputy Clerk Lewis, the Circuit Clerk assigned the application to Court-room No. 3, in which Judge Barclay presides. Thither Mr. Harris at once proceeded, accompanied by Messrs. Lee & Ellis and Charles [illegible]toy, of counsel for the respondent. The movements of the Circuit Attorney attracted no [illegible]ular notice from the habitues of the Court and there were not half a dozen people in [illegible]hen he presented his application. In ad[illegible] the court Mr. Harris said: [illegible] desire to procure a preliminary order which [illegible] prevent the publication of the notes of evi[illegible]ce taken before the last Grand Jury, this aft[illegible]oon."

THE COURT ASKED

[illegible] matter had been assigned to it, and being [illegible]ered in the affirmative Mr. Harris was in[illegible]cted to read his application. The application [illegible]tes that Joseph R. Harris is the Cir[illegible] Attorney for the Eighth Judi[illegible]al Circuit of the State of Missouri, and as such officer he is required by law to represent the State in all criminal prosecutions for felonies committed within said circuit. That he is the advisory officer of the Grand Jury, and the custodian of the books and notes which he alleges are now in the possession of the editors and publishers of the POST-DISPATCH, or their servants, agents and employes. The petition further recites that during the session of the last Grand Jury a large number of witnesses were examined before that body in reference to crimes and felonies committed within said jurisdiction, and the testimony of said witnesses was taken in shorthand by the official stenographer of the Criminal Court duly appointed under the laws of the State of Missouri. The petition then goes on to say that the petitioner is informed and believes that said shorthand notes are in the possession of Henry W. Moore, Florence White and John A. Dillon of the POST-DISPATCH, an evening newspaper, etc., their servants, agents or employes; that said parties have procured them to be transcribed in long hand and that they intend to publish the same in the POST-DISPATCH to-day. The petition asks the court to restrain the publication of said notes, and to order said parties before mentioned to return the same to the Circuit Attorney. The petition is verified by the affidavit of the Circuit Attorney.

AT THE CONCLUSION OF THE READING of the petition Major B. D. Lee addressed the court in behalf of the respondents. He said:

"We have had no time to look into this matter, but it strikes me at once that this court has no jurisdiction in the premises. This is a criminal matter. I don't know how Mr. Harris can claim to have any standing in this court. This doesn't purport to be a proceeding in the name of the State of Missouri. I don't know of any proceeding which the law authorizes to be taken in his name as Circuit Attorney. The petition which Mr. Harris has just read is simply a statement that certain books and notes belonging to him in his official capacity have been taken. There is no charge in the petition that the parties named in the petition are going to mutilate them. If they are criminally liable the Criminal Court can punish them."

At this point Judge Barclay requested Mr. Ellis to procure for the Law Library a copy of the opinion of Judge Gantt, formerly of the Court of Appeals, in the libel case of the Life Association of America vs. Boogher. Judge Barclay was of counsel in the case, and he stated that the conclusions arrived at by Judge Gantt was in line with other decisions of different courts throughout the United States. Returning to the court room Mr. Ellis read the decision which very clearly and positively asserts that no court in the land can restrict the liberty of the press. Mr. Harris addressed the court at some length.

HE SAID:

"I am not myself clear as to the law, but I will give my view with reference to it. The law cited is scarcely applicable to the present proceeding. It is true that the license of the press cannot be restrained. But there are collateral rights that will warrant the exercise of the jurisdiction of the court in the direction I have prayed for. This is not an attack on the liberty of the press, but it is directed against parties who have illegally gotten possession of the books of a public officer. It is the violation of the liberty of speech uttered in the secrecy of the Grand Jury that I am seeking to prevent."

Mr. Harris referred the court to the law of 1881 providing for the appointment of an official stenographer for the Criminal Court and prescribing his duties. At the close of Mr. Harris' remarks Mr. Ellis addressed the court.

"It is laid down as a fundamental principle," said Mr. Ellis, "that a person may publish anything. It may be a crime to do it, but no court in the land can restrain it. The Constitution plainly guarantees that 'any person may freely print on any subject.' The fact that it is something that was never intended for publication, does not prevent it from being a 'subject' under the provision of this section. Now, let us look at the matter from another point of view. Suppose a grand juror goes to a reporter and gives him information touching the testimony brought out in the jury room, would it be pretended that the court would have the right to restrain the publication of that information? Suppose the court does grant the preliminary order prayed for, what will the bond be and what the measure of damages?"

Judge Barclay announced that he would look over the papers and decide the matter at half past 12 o'clock.

THE NOTICE.

The following is a copy of the notice left at the office of the POST-DISPATCH this morning at 10:15. It will be observed that it is anonymous:

Henry W. Moore, John A. Dillon and Florence D. White, their servants, agents and employes:

You are hereby notified that at 10 o'clock a. m., on Monday, the 15th day of October, 1883, application will be made to the Circuit Court in the City of St. Louis, before A. M. Thayer, judge of said court, for an injunction restraining you and each of you from destroying, using or publishing the short-hand reporter's notes of the proceedings of the July Grand Jury of the Criminal Court, and for such further order in the premises as the court may deem proper.

October 15, 1883.

THE OPINION OF THE COURT.

On reconvening court at 12:30 o'clock, Judge Barclay stated that he had put his views on the subject under review in writing and read the following opinion:

"The petitioner, Jos. R. Harris, as Circuit Attorney of this circuit, applies for a temporary restraining order or injunction to prohibit Messrs. Moore, Dillon and White, as publishers of the POST-DISPATCH newspaper, from using or mutilating the books and notes containing the stenographic reports of proceedings of the late Grand Jury and to prohibit the publication of the same or any part thereof. Under the law concerning the taking of such notes by a stenographer appointed by the Criminal Court (Acts of 1881, p. 106), it is clear that when taken they become official papers of said court, which are to be by him placed in custody either of the Clerk of said court, or of the 'prosecuting officer of the court.' The report of the proceedings of the Grand Jury is committed to the custody of the latter officer. The Grand Jury forms a part of the official machinery by which the Criminal Court administers the law, and the official reports of the proceedings thereof are a part of the official papers of that court. If these official papers of that court are improperly in the possession of the persons alleged in this petition, that court and its proper officers have adequate and summary remedy by contempt proceedings to recover them without the aid of an injunction, which is a remedy allowed only in the event no other can be had. Moreover, by the Constitution of Missouri, it is declared that 'every person shall be free to say, write, or publish whatever he will on any subject, being responsible for all abuse of that liberty,' and one appellate court has held this provision applicable even where the defendant publisher was wholly insolvent, and thereby all redress by civil damages defeated. Hence the allegations of threatened publication do not of themselves set forth any cause of action. Reference is also made to the decision of this Court in the case of State ex. rel. Berg (decided in a written opinion of March 14, 1883,) to support the result here announced."

The application for the temporary injunction is hence denied.

"I AM IN MISSOURI,

And Am It's Governor."—Crittenden Returns this Morning.

The Governor of the State of Missouri returned from Kentucky this morning, breakfasted at the Southern Hotel in company with his wife, loitered about the rotunda for a little while as if expecting callers, and was then driven to the Union Depot, where he took the Missouri Pacific train for Jefferson City. A reporter met the Governor as the Ohio and Mississippi train rolled into the Union Depot, but an attempt at application of his art was met with a brief, jointed and peremptory refusal to say anything whatsoever. A POST-DISPATCH reporter met with a little more success at the Southern Hotel, the time selected being just as the Executive emerged from the breakfast-room, smiling and contented.

When the reporter was yet afar off, the Governor espied him, and, raising his jeweled right hand, he waved it with a deprecatory motion, and said: "Not one word—not one, about anything."

This was certainly a discouraging commencement.

"You are looking first rate, Governor, considering that you have traveled so much and so far."

"Why, I have only been as far as Lexington, Ky., with my wife, to visit her old mother, a very remarkable old lady indeed, 85 years of age."

"The papers had you in New York State."

"That was ridiculous. They also said that I was a fugitive. That needs no answer. Thomas T. Crittenden never runs away or shirks a responsibility. I am here now, prepared to act as I think for the best interests of the State. No, sir; I never shirk any responsibility."

"Were you apprised of the developments in police circles during your absence?"

"I saw a great deal of matter telegraphed to the outside papers."

"Did you get a POST-DISPATCH containing the Grand Jury testimony?"

"Yes, some friend handed me the paper containing that and the Finney letter."

"Did you read both?"

"Why, certainly, I always like to read what my enemies have to say against me."

"What do you think of the enterprise shown by the POST-DISPATCH, in giving this testimony to the public?"

"That matter is I believe in the courts, and it would be improper for me to say anything."

"But cannot you say something about the recent troubles in view of the fact that the matter has been taken out of the hands of the newspapers, and the public feeling is voiced by the Merchants' Exchange in one of the largest and most earnest mass meetings ever held in that hall."

"I saw something in the Louisville papers of yesterday to the effect that a meeting had been held and that it had passed resolutions denunciatory of me and my appointments. I have not read them as yet and consequently cannot speak of them. When the time comes I will talk. I never was afraid to speak out. Just now I have nothing to say, except that I am its Governor."

"Will you not return here in a few days to go before the Grand Jury to testify in the police examination?"

"Such is my intention, but I cannot tell exactly when I will return. I must go to Jefferson City this morning. Mrs. Crittenden is waiting, so good bye."

"One word more, Governor, there is more talk about you having sent Thomas E. Tutt to Charles Green offering to make him a Police Commissioner if he would file his blank resignation with you?"

"Didn't they get through talking about that two or three years ago?"

"It seems not, for they are still talking."

"Well, I had nothing to say then, and I have nothing to say now. Mr. Tutt is a very estimable gentleman. Now, excuse me from any further talk. I tolk you I had nothing to say in the beginning, nor have I now. When the proper time comes I will act as well as talk."

And so saying, he vanished up the elevator.

Bob Pate Explains.

Mr. R. C. Pate sends the following telegram from Louisville as his contribution to the literature of the present police muddle:

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

LOUISVILLE, KY., October 14.—I see in your paper my name mixed up in the late police muddle, and an intimation that I held Mr. Kerwin's resignation, etc. I tested the Johnson law to my satisfaction and promised the Governor when he pardoned me to never again violate said law and I have kept my promise, and am now and have been ever since engaged in a legitimate business, and have had no interest or concern in politics or police matters since my retirement. If I ever had any instrument in writing from Mr. Kerwin, it was had some two or three years ago when he was an aspirant, but he failed to get the appointment. If there was a written obligation it was destroyed when he was appointed. I had quit business and had no interest in his being appointed and nothing whatever to do with his appointment, and did not hold his or anybody else's resignation. Since my retirement, some year and a half ago, I have had no interest in politics, police matters or in gambling. Respectfully yours,
R. C. PATE.

Chief Taaffe Talks.

A POST-DISPATCH reporter asked Chief Taaffe what truth there was in the reported arrangement whereby he was to vacate the office of Chief and Capt. Huebler was to be appointed to hold the office pro tem. "There is no such arrangement," said Mr. Taaffe. "I was appointed to this office without my solicitation and against my will, really. I do not propose to leave it under fire. I think it would be very cowardly in me to go out on account of the public clamor that is being made. You may say that if there is any such arrangement I know nothing about it, and that I do not believe there is anything in it at all."

What Cleveland Will Do.

The term of Mr. H. D. Cleveland as a Police Commissioner will, in all probability, come to a close with to-morrow's meeting of the Board. This result will be brought about by a notice which was served on that gentleman several days ago. The notice was from Mr. W. R. Allen and Mr. Donaldson of the Cass Avenue Street Car Line, with which Mr. Cleveland is connected as superintendent of the road. Mr. Allen, the president of the corporation has positively notified Mr. Cleveland that he should take his choice, but that if he remained as a member of the Board he could not continue his connection with the Cass Avenue Line. On receipt of this information Mr. Cleveland announced to his friends that he had run his career as a Commissioner, and that he would lay down the honor as speedily as he could. He also stated to men who have his confidence that he would vote for the reinstatement of Campbell in deference to the public sentiment, and that after he had done so and left things as he found them, he would step down and out. In an interview this morning he is quoted as denying the fact that he will help to put Campbell back where he was, but those who know him well are confident that he will pursue the course outlined above. He has announced himself as sick and tired of the whole business, and as anxious to get away from politics and forget them as soon as possible.

Stiles' Indorsements.

One of the strong points made against Dr. Lutz has been his supposed friendship for Albert J. Stiles and his desire to make him Chief of Detectives. A strong scene occurred between the Doctor and Chief Campbell when the matter was broached. A POST-DISPATCH reporter this morning met the Doctor, who said: "A great deal has been said about my effort to get Albert Stiles into the Department, and other things. The public have jumped at conclusions, and without waiting to hear the other side, they have followed the papers in abusing me, and they get up a big indignation meeting at the Merchants' Exchange, and howl themselves hoarse for removing a man who has been guilty of the grossest insubordination. Given Campbell was quite conspicuous at that meeting. This letter will show how he has changed his mind regarding Stiles. He wrote:"

"Hon. Board of Police Commissioners:

"GENTLEMEN—Learning that Mr. A. J. Stiles is an applicant to you for position as Chief of Detectives, I desire to add my recommendation to his application. I have seen his work in matters entrusted to him, and found him reliable, sagacious and ——, and believe that he would ably fill the position which he asks at your hands.

"Yours truly, GIVEN CAMPBELL."

Joseph Franklin also endorsed Stiles in the following words in a letter to the Board:

"I understand that Mr. A. J. Stiles is an applicant for position of Chief of Detectives, and I should think it would be to the interest of the department to employ him. He has done work for the corporation with which I am connected, and he has always been faithful and efficient. I trust he may be successful. Respectfully,

"JOSEPH FRANKLIN."

Ellis Wainwright also wrote in Stiles' interest as follows:

"GENTLEMEN—Hearing that Mr. A. J. Stiles is an applicant for the position of Chief of Detectives, I wish to lay before your honorable Board my earnest recommendation for his success. We have known Mr. Stiles for many years, and have frequently employed him in his professional business capacity, and have always found him courteous, honorable and efficient. He would certainly do credit to the position.

"Respectfully yours,

"ELLIS WAINWRIGHT."

Similar letters are in my possession from Giles F. Filley, E. S. Scranton, of the Dun & Co. Mercantile Agency; Isaac M. Mason, E. D. Usner, of the St. L., A. & T. H. R. R. Co.; Rabateau & Co., James A. St. John, E. Hayden, of the American Express Company; David B. Gould, Carroll & Powell, D. C. Thatcher, Gov. Silas Woodson, J. M. Thompson, of the Continental Bank, and the Goodyear Rubber Company.

Did Not Vote for Himself.

Mr. Dave Caruth stated to a POST-DISPATCH reporter, last evening, that injustice had been done Dr. Lutz all through this controversy. "It has been stated," said Mr. Caruth, "that Dr. Lutz was elevated to the Vice-Presidency of the Police Board by his own vote. That is not the fact. Dr. Lutz did vote for himself in the temporary organization. But at the time he was elected permanently, he received three votes, and these were cast by Messrs. Cleveland, Gooding and myself."

Mayor Ewing.

Mayor Ewing returned from Vincennes on Saturday night, and, although suffering severely with his eyes, he was down to his office bright and early this morning and disposed of a vast amount of routine business. He found time, however, to say to a POST-DISPATCH reporter that he believed the people were in a greater state of excitement regarding police matters than ever before. The mass-meeting at the Merchants' Exchange he looked upon as a grand popular demonstration, the voice of which should be heeded. "There is no truth in the rumor that I intend to exercise my prerogative and assume the head of the Police Department, as I have too much other business to attend to. I know nothing about the story published in the morning papers that it is the intention of the Board to put Capt. Huebler in as chief. The way I understand it is that Mr. Cleveland will move to reconsider the resolutions under which Campbell was deposed, and then will vote for Campbell. I may be deceived in this, but I believe that the programme is just as I have stated it. I have had no time to attend to police matters since my return. The story of a caucus having been held at my house last night is totally without foundation. The people are justly complaining of the condition of affairs, and the POST-DISPATCH did a good thing when it laid bare the secrets of the gambling ring. Our people now know to what a pass things have come. The remedy for a repetition of these troubles is in open sessions of the Board."

Commissioner Cleveland.

H. D. Cleveland was down town this morning. To a POST-DISPATCH reporter he said: "Those people at that meeting on Saturday went altogether too far, and you can depend upon it that there will be a great change of public opinion before the week is out. They talk about hasty action, and no examination, and all that. I want to know if they did not do the very same thing they were alleging against us? Did they make any investigation or inquiry as to the reason we took the action we did? Not a bit of it, but they went right ahead and 'indignated.' That feeling will have cooled down before the week is out. I am glad that the Governor has returned to the State. I shall write a letter to him to-day. As to the action of the Board to-morrow, I cannot predicate it at all. I only know that I believed I was right in voting the way I did last Tuesday."

A Card from Mr. Stiles.

ST. LOUIS, October 15, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

As my name has been used quite freely during the present police muddle, and as I have been the innocent cause of getting others into trouble, through the efforts of designing men, I wish to state the real facts in the case. I was a candidate for Chief of Detectives before the Board of Police Commissioners last April. I asked Dr. Lutz and Messrs. Caruth and Kerwin to support me. Knowing that Mr. McChesney was a personal friend of Mr. Kinkead, and accidentally meeting him on the street one day, I told him I was an applicant for the position of Chief of Detectives, and would like to have Kinkead's vote. He replied that if I went before the Board well recommended he would ask Kinkead to vote for me. That was the only conversation I ever had with him on the subject. I presented letters to the Board—indorsing me in the strongest terms for the position—from the following gentlemen: J. M. Thompson, Esq., vice-president of the Continental Bank; Joseph Franklin, Esq., of Wm. Barr & Co.; Hon. Isaac Mason, Sheriff; George B. Thompson of Goodyear Rubber Company; Carroll & Powell, insurance agents; David B. Gould, Gould Directory Company; G. F. Filley, Esq., president of Excelsior Manufacturing Company; E. Hayden, managing director American Express Company; Col. Given Campbell, attorney; J. A. St. John, Esq., of St. Louis Type Foundry; D. C. Thatcher, Esq., Windsor Hotel Company; Raboteau & Co., wholesale druggists; Ellis Wainwright of Wainwright Brewing Company; R. G. Dun & Co., Mercantile Agency; E. D. Usner, paymaster Cairo Short Line; ex-Gov. Silas Woodson. It certainly cannot be charged that the above gentlemen recommended me for any illegal or improper purpose.
ALBERT J. STILES.

Gov. Crittenden's Trip.

Gentlemen who have just returned from the Louisville races tell a curious story, in which the name of Gov. Thomas T. Crittenden figures in a queer manner. It was given out while the Governor was absent that he was in Kentucky, but the name of the big town in the Blue Grass State that held his Excellency never came to light. It now turns out that Crittenden was in Louisville, and that he was domiciled at the Gault House. He was there on Tuesday of last week, and he remained at least until Friday. People who roomed at the same hotel state that Mr. R. C. Pate had an elegant suite of apartments in the same hostelry, and that he and Missouri's Governor met and recognized each other. They never had any extended conferences in the rotunda, of the hotel, probably because the electric light is injurious to the eyes when a person basks in its rays too long. But what St. Louisans remarked particularly was that on several occasions when Mr. Pate was out of the public gaze Gov. Crittenden was mysteriously missing. The story is that Mr. Pate and Gov. Crittenden would meet, exchange a few remarks in a low tone, and then mutually agree to separate. Soon after Mr. Pate would not be in his usual haunts and at the same time people who wanted to shake the Governor's hand were compelled to postpone the ceremony. After a time, both gentlemen would enter upon the scene again, but there did not seem to be any extreme cordiality existing between them. In fact, the reserved manner which each adopted was so apparent, that it almost seemed to be studied. Of course, Gov. Crittenden's visit to Louisville had nothing to do with the present trouble, and Mr. Pate's card, published elsewhere, was never seen by Crittenden, who will read it with surprise in to-day's POST-DISPATCH.

Campbell and Commissioner Caruth.

The following card will fully explain itself:

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In justice to the gentleman whose recent action as a member of the Board of Police Commissioners has been very much misunderstood I wish to give a few facts that happen to be in my possession. Last Tuesday evening Mr. David W. Caruth, a member of the Board of Police Commissioners, voted for the removal of Chief Campbell, and while I, along with his best and most intimate friends, think he made a mistake in doing so, at the same time and under the circumstances he did, yet I know that he did not do so without a reason that he thought amply sufficient, and one that might have led any other man of self-respect to do as he did. Mr. Caruth put Mr. Campbell into the office of Chief of Police, and was his truest and best friend in the Police Board. The friendship between the two remained uninterrupted until Mr. Campbell expressed a desire to return to a Captaincy, giving as a reason that there were too many annoyances about the office of Chief. When Mr. Caruth was made acquainted with the desire of Mr. Campbell, he expressed his willingness to grant the request, and it was mutually agreed at an informal meeting of the Commissioners at the opening of the Standard Theater that Mr. Campbell should return to a Captaincy, in accordance with his own desires. At the same time the question was asked who could take his place. Mr. Kerwin was at that conference, and he modestly suggested that he himself was well acquainted with the office of Chief of Police, and plainly intimated that he would take the vacancy. This, however, was only incidental, and I only mention it in passing. It turned out that Mr. Campbell was not as anxious to get out of the Chief's place as he thought he was when he said he would give $300, all the money he had in the world, to be relieved. About this time Kinkead resigned and there was some talk about blank resignations. And as soon as Mr. Kerwin had discovered that the Board did not encourage his ambition to be Chief, he also resigned, and there was again some talk about blank resignations, which seems to have been not altogether unfounded. Mr. Campbell, under the excitement of the moment, felt called upon to express himself very freely about subjects that it was not really his province to discuss. He was a subordinate of the Board, and discipline, to say nothing of courtesy, should have kept him from the very indiscreet use of his tongue. It matters not how honest he may have been or how pure his motives, the fact remains that he was guilty of conduct unbecoming an officer. Among other things he was reported to have said that somebody held Kerwin's resignation and that he believed somebody held Caruth's. This report went to the ears of Mr. Caruth through a friend in whom he had unbounded confidence. He sent that same friend to Mr. Campbell to ask him to come to see him immediately. Mr. Campbell denied with great indignation that he had ever made the remark. Mr. Caruth's friend told him there was a witness ready to face him in the matter and that Mr. Caruth would have the witness at hand the next morning at his office, when he hoped to see Mr. Campbell. The interview ended with Campbell's solemn promise to call on Mr. Caruth the next morning. He never went, and from that day to this has failed to make the denial in the presence of the man he had so greatly wronged. This was the reason for Mr. Caruth's vote last Tuesday evening. He made a mistake in voting that way at the time he did, but that he ought to have cast such a vote eventually no one can doubt. This much is simple justice to a man who is greatly misunderstood. If the statements I have made are called in question, I will bring forth the proof. Very truly,
JUSTICE.

A Contribution.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As the people of St. Louis are at present occupied with the scandals of the Police Board, it may be worth while to call their attention to the fact that under the Scheme and Charter the power to abolish the present system and place the management of the police in the control of the city, does not depend on the Governor, but can be exercised by the citizens by amendment to the Charter.

The law is as follows:

Const., Article 9, Section 20.—"And at the end of sixty days thereafter shall take the place of and supercede the Charter of St. Louis, and all amendments thereof, and all special laws relating to St. Louis county inconsistent with such scheme."

Sec. 22.—"The Charter so ratified, may be amended at intervals of not less than two years, by proposals therefor, submitted by the law-making authorities of the city to the qualified voters thereof, at a general or special election, held at least sixty days after the publication of such proposals, and accepted by at least three-fifths of the qualified voters voting thereat."

In section 20, stated above, the Metropolitan Police of St. Louis comprised the city and county of St. Louis.

The Board of Freeholders, in devising a scheme of separation between the city and county of St. Louis, and framing a charter for the city, have under consideration the abolishment of the Board of Police Commissioners, and in lieu thereof creating a Chief of Police, to be appointed and confirmed by the Mayor and Council, and to hold office while he executes the laws of the State and the ordinances of the city.

The Board of Freeholders were anxious to wipe out the Police Board on account of its scandals, but deemed policy to be the better part of valor. I, however, stated that from my own knowledge and experience as Auditor of the city, it was the city's legitimate right to pass upon and scrutinize all claims of expense incurred in the Police or any other department, wherein a cent was drawn from the City Treasury. This charge was made as relates to the Police Department.

As the Board of Freeholders had the constitutional authority to wipe out the Board of Police Commissioners at that time, so has the city now the reserved and inherent right by amendment to the charter to abolish said board, and a more fitting opportunity than the present can never occur.

The Commercial Club.

The members of the Commercial Club, who returned from Cincinnati last night, report a royal entertainment at the hands of their host, the Cincinnati Commercial Club. About forty members of the Chicago and twenty-five of the Boston club were present, making, with the St. Louis club, about ninety guests in all. They were all quartered at the Grand Hotel, where the best rooms in the house had been engaged for them. Friday they were driven out to famous the Inclined Plane and were given an informal lunch and reception at the elegant residence of Mr. M. E. Ingalls, the president of the Cincinnati club. Friday evening a formal reception was given at the Queen City Club, and Saturday, after a drive through the city and suburbs, the entire party took lunch at Mt. Auburn. The Shillito Mansion, perhaps the finest residence in Cincinnati, was thrown open to them, and Mr. Stewart Shillito acted as host. The crowning feature of the two days' entertainments was the banquet at the Exposition Restaurant, Saturday night. About 300 covers were laid—a distinguishing feature of the dinner being a seperate table for the press. A band of music placed in an outer hall performed a special programme provided for the occasion, and after dinner the following toasts were offered:

Boston—"Refinement's chosen seat, Art's trophied store, Learning's green retreat." Response by W. H. Lincoln, president of the Boston Club.

Chicago—"In the very May morn of youth, ripe for exploits and mighty enterprises." Response by A. A. Carpenter, president of the Chicago Club.

St. Louis—"Not all the magic of a dream, nor the enchantment of an Arabian tale, could outmatch the waking realities which were to rise upon the vision of Pierre Chouteau." Response by Gerard B. Allen, president of St. Louis Club.

In announcing this toast Mr. Ingalls said that, as the last child was the dearest, so was the St. Louis Club nearest to their hearts. The weather was perfect during their two days' stay, and the three clubs left for home Sunday, more than pleased with the hospitality of the Cincinnati Club.

Harmony at Last.

The Pohlman City Central Committee held a meeting at 3 o'clock this afternoon, in pursuance of the last adjournment. The principal business before the meeting was to take action in reference to the resolutions passed at the Silk Stocking convention on Saturday, providing for the adjournment of both Republican city committees, and the election of a new one to take their place. The first business at this afternoon's meeting will be the introduction of a resolution, providing the committee adjourn sine die. If this fails to carry, then the following members will immediately hand in their resignations. The men who will do so are Fox of the Second Ward, Ehlert of the Third, Brophy of the Fourth, Gutsch of the Sixth, Harman of the Seventh, Heineman of the Eighth, Hiemenz of the Ninth, Martin of the Thirteenth, Meyer of the Fourteenth, Kirby of the Seventeenth, Pohlman of the Twentieth and Dalley, who is a committeeman at large. There are two wards which have no representatives at present. Other members may follow the same course, but the gentlemen mentioned have already prepared their resignations and had them in their pockets, ready for the emergency, when they went into the meeting. It is thought Mr. Filley will favor the same movement, and it is thought that the motion to adjourn sine die will pass, as all the gentlemen mentioned have agreed to vote for it. After the meeting is over there will probably be nothing in the way of harmony, and everything will be ready for the election of a new committee.

SWITCHMEN'S STRIKE.

Their Demand for More Pay and Less Work Refused.

Promptly at noon to-day the switchmen working on the different railroads running into East St. Louis, entered upon a general strike, and have pledged themselves not to resume work till the railroad companies accede to their demands for the Chicago rate of wages. The strike has been talked over among the men for two months past and was not unexpected by the companies. Several meetings have been held by the men of late, at which the wages question was thoroughly discussed. A representative of the Switchmen's Association of Chicago arrived at East St. Louis last Friday and attended a meeting of the railroad men at Flannegan's Hall in the evening, explaining that switchmen in Chicago were much better treated than those of St. Louis and East St. Louis, receiving $65 a month for twenty-six working days of ten hours each, and receiving extra compensation for extra time and Sunday work. A committee was appointed to notify the different railroad managers that unless they adopted the Chicago rates before noon to-day a general suspension of work would ensue. The companies refused to comply with the demands and every switchman quietly left his work at noon and started for his home. A heavy freight train started over the bridge a few minutes before noon and became stalled on the incline. An engine hurried to its assistance and rushed the train to the Union Depot yards just in time to allow the switchmen to handle it before quitting. The strike is most unfortunate for the railroad companies, as an unusually large amount of freight is at present in the yards at East St. Louis, which must necessarily remain on the tracks till the blockade can be raised. Two of the roads are willing to accede to the demands of the men, but none of the strikers will resume work until all the roads accept their terms. No meeting will be held this afternoon, but a general meeting of brakemen and switchmen is called for to-morrow night at Flannegan and Canby's Hall. The different roads are now paying switchmen $1 55 per day, except the Bridge Company and the Chicago and Alton, both of which pay $2. The strikers number about 600 men in St. Louis and East St. Louis.

Trouble Brewing.

D. P. Grier of the Union Elevator returned from the East side about 3 p. m. He says there is serious trouble apprehended from the striking switchmen. The Narrow Gauge road has a train load of grain for the Union Elevator and will put on a gang of their own men to run the train. The strikers say they will stop them if they have to resort to violent measures.

Court of Criminal Correction.

The case of Chas. G. Scott, charged with assault with intent to kill, was dismissed for want of prosecution.

John Sutter was tried for petit larceny and discharged.

The case of Henry Kaebt, assault and battery, was nolle prossed.

Joseph Burrows was sentenced to the Work House for six months for stealing a pair of boots from Geo. Hoeger.

The case of Wm. Stuart, charged with abandoning his wife was continued generally.

Henry Vogel, charged with grand larceny, waived his right to a preliminary examination, and was committed to jail in default of $800 bond.

John Jones, charged with burglary and larceny, also waived examination and was committed.

In the case of John McAuliff and Miles Joyce, charged with assaulting and battering Fred. Dannenberg during the strike at Carondelet, McAuliff was discharged and Joyce was fined $5 and costs. A motion for a new trial was entered.

New warrants were issued as follows: Fred. Gruenagel, assault and battery upon Mary Gruenagel; Jacob Rotermerl, assault and battery upon Elizabeth Kiebe; Edward Davis, robbery first degree; Kate Quick, petit larceny.

Bound for Chester.

The Sheriff of Edwards County, Ill., passed through East St. Louis, this morning, with four prisoners en route to Chester Penitentiary. Wm. Garfield, one of the prisoners, was found guilty of committing an indecent assault on a little girl at Paris, Ill., and was sentenced to life-imprisonment. Garfield still claims that he is innocent, and is confident of gaining another trial which will result in his acquittal. P. Swiggard was found guilty of murder, and sentenced to twenty years. George Coe and Wm. Bibbins will serve six years each for burglary.

Adelaide Neilson.

D. S. Diamant, a local artist of repute, is exhibiting in the windows of Mermod, Jaccard & Co.'s jewelry establishment, on Fourth and Locust streets, a crayon portrait of Adelaide Neilson. The portrait will be presented shortly to the Elks' Club by Mr. Diamant. The portrait, including the heavily gilded frame, is thirty-six by forty-eight. The portrait has elicited a good deal of comment. Theater-goers pronounce the portrait an excellent one. The shading is delicately accurate, the artist having grasped the idealism of the features with wonderful skill.

Democratic Convention.

Democratic primaries will be held to-night to elect delegates to the convention which will meet to-morrow, to nominate a candidate for President of the Board of Assessors. John J. O'Brien and Thomas Ryan are the candidates most prominently mentioned. The general impression is that O'Brien will be nominated. There are rival delegations in the Eighteenth Ward. The Ninth Ward O'Brien ticket bears the name of Eugene Rino, Patrick Hearn, Oscar Roderman and Dennis Heatherman.

Criminal Court.

The motion for a new trial in the case of the State vs. John Nelson was overruled this morning. The Albert Wing and Essie Davis manslaughter case was continued for the State. Most of the morning was spent in the excusal of jurors. By noon a jury was impaneled to try the case of the State vs. Wm. Morris. Morris is charged with assault with intent to kill. Marshall McDonald, in the absence of Mr. Harris, conducted the prosecution.

Coroner's Cases.

Capt. Huebler reported the death of the four-year-old daughter of Nathan Shelton, at 3012 Scott avenue.

Jacob Burrow, a German, 50 years of age, died at his boarding-house, No. 300 South Main street, last night, without medical attendance.

Wm. Pauley died at his lodging-house on the southeast corner of Main and Myrtle streets last night without medical attendance.

Mrs. Steward, 64 years of age, died in the rear of 1218 North Eighteenth street, last night, from an unknown cause.

Was It Murder?

There was a case of death from fracture of the skull at the City Hospital yesterday which demands investigation. A young man named Tony Keitne, living at 614 Carr street, attended a surprise party Saturday night at Twenty-first and O'Fallon streets. A fracas occurred during the course of the evening and young Keith was struck on the head by a brick, thrown by some unknown party. He was taken by his friends to a club-house at Ninth and Cass avenue and permitted to lie there without medical attention until 2 o'clock yesterday, when Officer Scully called in Dr. Swander. The Third District patrol wagon was summoned and the injured man carried to the Dispensary. From there he was taken to the City Hospital, where he died. The police profess to be absolutely ignorant of the affair, and inquiries made among the young men present fail to develop anything new. It looks very much like a case of murder.

MINISTERIAL MEETINGS.

Opinions of Prominent Clergymen in Reference to the Police Ring.

The usual Monday morning ministerial meetings were held at the religious publication rooms, corner of Eleventh and Olive streets, at 10 o'clock sharp this morning. After the meetings were over, a POST-DISPATCH representative button holed two of the prominent religious editors of the city on the police troubles.

What opinion do you entertain in reference to the police ring exposure?" he asked Dr. B. W. Johnson, one of the editors of the Christian Evangelist. "I think, sir, that the public is responsible for the corruption that has been brought to light, ordinarily the morality and business integrity of a city holds aloof from the local politics, and turn over the City Government to the political bummers."

"You think, then, that extreme measures are occasionally necessary to arouse the public?"

"Yes, sir. It requres an earthquake to wake them up to the duties they owe to the public. When New York City was aroused Tweed soon found what they were going to do about it."

"Do you think the public knew of these corruption before their publication?"

"Well, many of the better classes knew of the corruptions underlying the police mangagement, before Chief Campbell was made a martyr, but did not want to intermeddle with other people's business. The explosion has of course made the whole matter a thing of public investigation, and the public for very shame should shoulder the responsibility. I think that great good will accompany the exposure. I look for a purification which will continue to prevail until the public goes to sleep again, but there will be no permanent improvement until the business and Christian men of the city form the habit of voting in every city election."

"And how do you think public opinion stands in reference to the police ring exposure?" asked the POST-DISPATCH representative of the venerable Dr. McAnanally, one of the editors of the Christian Advocate.

"Well, so far as I have heard, there is no dissenting voice in the condemnation of a majority of the Police Board, and if the reports in the papers are true they deserve all the condemnation that has been heaped upon them."

"Do you consider that it is the duty of the Church of Christ to act boldly in such a matter as this?"

"No, not as a church, but as members—as citizens, whose interests are identified with that of all others. I consider that this evil with many others of like character grows out of the neglect of church members and other good citizens to regularly attend and vote at the elections as they should. In my judgment a citizen who habitually neglects to exercise the right of suffrage deserves to be disfranchised, and counted out of the sphere of respectable citizenship. Good morning, good morning."

The Harvest Home services at the Bethel Chapel yesterday afternoon were well attended. The chapel was beautifully decorated with fruits, flowers, cereals and vegetables. The exercises opened with the popular evangelistic song, "Come to the Savior," followed by the Scripture lesson for the day by the superintendent, after which Dr. J. A. Worden of Philadelphia made a strong and stirring address. Mrs. W. F. Crafts of New York then followed with a Scripture selection from Isaiah xxviii.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Twenty-five burial permits were issued this morning.

City collections to-day were: Licenses $1,630 01, taxes $3,487 11.

One new case of small-pox in the northern part of the city was reported this morning.

H. L. Fox took out a permit this morning to erect a $10,000 stone building on St. Charles street, between Eighth and Ninth streets.

The Eighth District macadam investigation was continued at 3 o'clock this afternoon. M. L. Bates, Claus Veiths and John Joyce are the witnesses to be examined.

The Council meets to-night for the last time in the special session. The Mayor will not send any new nominations in. The names of Whitman and Mott are still before the committee, and will be allowed to go by default. The regular session commences to-morrow.

Mayor Ewing this morning committed two beautiful little blonde twin girls, 4 years of age, to the House of Refuge. The mother is a drunkard and worse; the father seems to have gone to wreck completely, and has failed utterly to pay for the support of the little ones, who have been cared for by an estimable lady named Farley. The father has refused to allow this lady to adopt the little ones, and the mother made threats of taking them away. The children were neatly dressed, and while the commitment papers were being made out they played about the secretary's office, making the air ring with their gleeful shouts. They are an unusually beautiful pair, and great regret was expressed at their fate. The Mayor ordered that they should not be separated, should any family desire to adopt them. It was a sad case.

CLOTHIERS FAILED.

Hyam Brothers, New York, fail for $250,000—The Cause.

NEW YORK, October 15.—The Dry Goods Commercial Agency report that Hyams Bros., a large firm of New York and San Francisco, in the wholesale clothing trade, have suspended, with liabilities $250,000. There are rumors, as yet unconfirmed, of still a larger failure in the same line.

CAUSE OF THE FAILURE.

One of the Hyams, speaking of the suspension, said that a judgment for $78,000 had been obtained against his brother Edward in San Francisco, where the latter has charge of the branch house. This judgment was against his brother individually, and did not affect the firm. The creditors in New York becoming alarmed, Hyams made an assignment to avoid any attachments. The liabilities in this city, he said, would not amount to more than $55,000, and in San Francisco probably not more than $100,000. Hyams was positive that the firm could pay 100 cents on the dollar, and that the trouble would be merely temporary. The assets, he said, would have to come from San Francisco. Business preferences in the assignment are $25,000.

The Episcopal Convention.

PHILADELPHIA, PA., October 15.—In the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church on the eleventh day the Bishops sent a message to the deputies stating that they had adopted a resolution providing for the retirement of Bishops by reason of advanced age or bodily infirmities.

Joint committee on papers from the Sewanee conference, relative to work among colored people, submitted a resolution providing for the establishment of missionary organizations in any diocese.

Cornwall of Kentucky offered a resolution requesting the committee of the whole on prayer book to substitute the revised prayer for the President of the United States, adopted in 1879, for the one reported by the joint committee. The resolution was withdrawn to present it to the committee of the whole.

Dr. Abercrombie of California offered a resolution providing that in the prayer for all conditions of men the words "Thy holy church universal," be changed to the words, "For the good estate of the Catholic church;" the latter words being those used in the English Church.

School Children Panic Stricken.

WATERBURY, CONN., October 15.—An alarm of fire at the Elm Street School, during a session, caused 600 children to rush headlong down stairs in a panic. Many were knocked down and trampled upon. One girl had her collar bone broken, another an eye badly cut, and a third suffered severe internal injuries. Many others were badly bruised. The fire caught in some waste paper near the furnace and was easily subdued.

O. & M. Directors Elected.

CINCINNATI, October 15.—The contest over the election of three directors of the Ohio and Mississippi Road, terminated to-day by a compromise, the Directors elected being Robert Garrett, Edwards Whittaker and James H. Smith. This is the ticket which the Baltimore and Ohio interest in the beginning claimed had been agreed on by the London committee of shareholders.

Free for a Moment.

PITTSBURG, October 15.—Miles Ogle, alias J. F. Oglesby, a notorious counterfeiter, completed an eight years' sentence in the Western Penitentiary this morning, and upon his release was immediately held to answer charges for counterfeiting at Cincinnati.

THE FOREIGN FOLIO.

LONDON, October 15.—The Post's St. Petersburg special states that owing to the impression produced by the statements made by the correspondents of foreign newspapers of alleged discoveries of conspiracies in the Russian army, and which were officially denied, the Government has resolved that in the future it will prosecute the authors of similar statements if they are domiciled in Russia.

PANIC IN A CHURCH.

ST. PETERSBURG, October 15.—During services in a Jewish synagogue at Ziwonka, on Saturday, a false alarm of fire was raised in the women's gallery, which caused a panic. People rushed for the door, where there was a terrible crush. Forty women were killed and thirty others injured.

England.

LONDON, October 15.—The Recorder of the Central Criminal Court, charging the Grand Jury in regard to the case of O'Donnell, said the prosecution claimed that the prisoner committed a deliberate murder of the worst kind, because his victim was a man who aided the law and who was under the protection of the crown.

China.

HONG KONG, October 15.—It is reported that a Chinese admiral, with four gunboats, left Pak Hoi for Lung Mun, near the Tonquin frontier, to embark most of the Chinese troops there. The admiral will return to Canton shortly with General Fang. It is supposed the intention of massing the Chinese troops on the Tonquin frontier has been abandoned.

France.

PARIS, October 15.—M. Cochery, Minister of Ports and Telegraphs, has gone to Cherbourg to enquire into the feasibility of making that port stopping place for steamers plying between Havre and New York.

Ireland.

DUBLIN, October 15.—Irving Bishop, mind reader, at an exhibition here Saturday night, failed four times to give the number of a bank note, then fainted and has since been dangerously ill of congestion of the brain.

THE SOCIALISTS GATHERING.

Letters Read From All Over the World—Plans of Future Action.

PITTSBURG, October 15.—The International Socialistic Workmen's Association resumed its session here this morning, only fifteen delegates being present. Letters of congratulation and encouragement were read from Mexico, London, Germany, Russia and Paris. The Nihilists congratulates the society on its past success, and expressed their heartfelt sympathy for its future. Papers were read from Milwaukee, New York, Chicago, Baltimore, St. Louis, St. Joseph, Omaha, Salinesville and California. Chicago advised a more harmonious system of organization than had hitherto been had, so as to secure more effective work. California urged the society to do its utmost to form an organization over the entire country and prepare for the coming conflict, having everything in readiness to strike at one time, as this action must be simultaneous all over the world. Omaha demanded that all the present systems of government be abolished, and that a general co-operative system be established throughout the world.

WILD WITH PAIN.

Crushed Under the Wheels of a Railroad—A Strange Freak.

PITTSBURG, PA., October 15.—While John Bley and James Maloney, two switchmen, were repairing damage to a freight car attached to a train standing at Derry Station, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, yesterday, the engineer started the train, not being aware of their presence under the car. Bley was crushed and mangled beyond recognition, and died instantly. Maloney was crushed against the tender of the engine, and his scalp almost torn from his head, and had one arm and leg broken. The train was quickly stopped and Maloney carried to the engine and laid on the floor of the cab. The trainmen then started for Bley's remains and were carrying them towards the engine when they were horror stricken to see Maloney, crazed with pain, suddenly jump up and throw the throttle valve wide open. The engine started with fearful rapidity down the grade. When Latrobe was reached, six miles from the scene of the accident, Maloney closed the valve and fell unconscious to the floor of the cab. He was picked up and taken to the hospital, where he is at present, with very slight hopes of recovery.

PENNSYLVANIA COAL MINERS.

The "Scabs" Denounced—A Large Number of the Strikers Resume Work.

PITTSBURG, October 15.—The river coal miners in convention to-day decided almost unanimously against submitting all the questions arising between the employer and employe to a board of arbitration for settlement. The miners working in a number of mines at a less rate than ordered by the Miners' Association were severely denounced.

MINES OPENED.

A Chronicle, Bradford, Pa., special says: "The Beech Tree Mines, owned by the Rochester and Pittsburg Railroad, started up this morning with 160 men and without any disturbance. The presence of Pinkerton's detectives is evidently having a good effect on the strikers. An attempt will be made to open the mines of the company at Punxsutawney this afternoon, and the extensive mines at Dubois to-morrow. The strikers at these points are very strong, and it is reported will resist any attempt at resumption. A dispatch from Reynoldsville reports all quiet there.

Indications.

Gen. Sherman's Future.

WASHINTON, D. C., October 15.—Gen. Sherman has selected Col. Tourtelotte and Col. Bacon as members of his staff to remain with him in St. Louis after being relieved from the command of the army, and until he is placed on the retired list. Gen. Poe, of his staff, will resume his duties in the engineer corps, and Gen. Tidball, another aide de camp, has been assigned to the command of the artillery school at Fortress Monroe. Gen. Sherman will leave Washington to-night for Cleveland to attend the reunion of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee.

Title Trouble at Texarkana.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., October 15.—Considerable excitement has just been created at Texarkana by the filing of the title deeds in the name of Joseph F. and John C. Kirley to 241 acres of land, including most of the land on which the Arkansas side of Texarkana is built. J. N. Smith of Little Rock went down and filed the deeds under an old swap land grant, and it is understood a suit for possession will soon begin.

Shot a City Marshal.

GEORGETOWN, KY., October 15.—News has been received here that Ambrose Wilson, City Marshal of Sadieville, this county, was shot and killed by James Creighton Sunday night. Wilson had found Creighton drunk and was trying to put him on his horse and send him home, when Creighton became angry and fired three shots.

MONEY.

Wall Street.

WALL STREET, 11 a. m.—Stocks opened stronger except for Oregon Transcontinental, which opened at 47, against 47⅛ at close Saturday. Over 3,000 shares were pressed for sale in early trading. General market improved shortly after opening, and advanced ⅛@¼c. At first call weakened on announcement of failure in clothing trade. Rumored other failures in this trade imminent. At present the early improvement has been lost.

Quotations of Money, Stocks, Bonds, Silver and Other Securities.

NEW YORK, October 15.—Money easy at 2@2½ per cent on call; prime mercantile paper 6@7. Bar siver 110⅛. Subsidiary coin ¼ per cent. discount buying, selling at par. Foreign exchange dull: 481¼@481½ for long, and 484¼@484½ sight. Governments strong. State bonds quiet. Railways firm. Stocks for the past hour less active. Rumors of impending failures in clothing trade is affecting speculation unfavorably. It is reported that the Ohio and Mississippi Road will be controlled by Garrett of the Baltimore and Ohio hereafter. Threes, 10 bid; 4½s, 114¾; 4s, 121⅛; Pacific 6s '95, 129 bid.

The Markets.

FORENCON SESSION, CLOSING AT 1 P. M.

The largest visible supply of wheat ever accumulated in the United States and Canada east of the Pacific slope was on November 8, 1879, when it amounted to 30,425,000 bu. At that date No. 2 red winter wheat was selling at $1 21⅜@1 22 in St. Louis, and $1 39¼ in New York, and No. 2 spring in Chicago at $1 13⅛.——Exports from New Orleans for September were 116,663 bu wheat, and 760,109 bu corn, against 1,778,124 bu wheat and none of corn for same month last year. The destinations this year were: Wheat—4,435 bu for Liverpool, 18,085 bu for Havre, 94,143 bu for Bordeaux. Corn—104,970 bu for Liverpool, 190,995 bu for Dublin, 92,270 bu for Falmouth, 76,065 bu for Elsinore, 88,000 bu for Rouen, 35,000 bu for Antwerp, 62,000 bu for Bremen, 110,809 bu for orders.——It is claimed that fully half the receipts of wheat to-day, and that it has been so for some time past, is from Kansas City, and consigned through this market to Toledo. The wheat is not even inspected here, but is run through the Union Elevator into Toledo cars and carried to that market. Kansas City is said to be shipping 30,000 bu a day to Toledo. This wheat is a mixture of No. 2 and 3 Turkey.——They do say that Gen. Grier will not even affix his signature to a check now without examining it closely to see that it is not a recommendation to some one that he is signing.——50,000 bu wheat was taken for export in New York to-day.——Advices are that while receipts of wheat are small just now, the country is preparing to ship freely once more.——Ed Mann is back on the floor as the representative of J. T. Lester & Co. of Chicago, as well as prominent grain houses in New York and Baltimore.——Stocks in New York today were 8,348,313 bu wheat, 2,954,822 bu corn, 2,263,303 bu oats and 392,048 bu rye, showing an increase over last Monday of 652,500 bu wheat, 263,800 bu corn, 151,600 bu oats and 58,600 bu rye.——Carruthers & Allen of New York, say the visible supply of wheat at next report will be 30,000,000 bu., or an increase of 1,500,000 bu., "without counting the probable 1,000,000 afloat in New York, which has not been included in the visible supply the past few weeks."——Toledo's stock this morning was 1,775,190 bu. wheat, 1,206,303 bu. corn and 28,766 bu. oats, or an increase of 61,273 bu. wheat and 28,766 bu. of oats, and a decrease of 401,500 bu. in corn from last Monday.

There was another drop in wheat futures today. Weakness prevailed at the opening, as cables continued dull and Chicago was declining, the East rather showing a firmer tone, but Western markets were depressed and nearly all the pressure was to sell. After declines of ⅛@⅝c were established the feeling became unsettled, prices stopped declining and fluctuated irregularly within a small range, while trading dwindled to small proportions. On the home call, however, there were some large sales for December made, several lots of 50,000 bu each selling, but these heavy offerings failed to depress the market. Subsequently there was no essential change in price, but the tone was firm, and the close was only ¼@⅜c below Saturday's latest rates. Corn was weaker early, in sympathy with wheat, and influenced also by the colder and clearer weather and lower markets elsewhere, but after the early call there was a stiffening manifest in these other markets (principally in Chicago, where receipts were not up to expectations) that caused sellers here to withdraw, decreased the offerings and sent prices upward. The close was firm and at advances of ¼@⅝c over Saturday's close. Oats were dull and during the early hours the feeling was weak, with buyers off for lower rates, but this market stiffened up with corn and at the close was steady to ¼c higher, as compared with Saturdays' close. Cash grades of wheat were lower and quiet. No. 2 red declined ¾c, and was in moderate milling and speculative request, and No. 3 red sold lightly for milling and shipping, but other grades were scarce and holders were quite firm. Cash No. 2 mixed corn was stronger and sold readily to local buyers and for shipment, partly on orders; all other grades were very scarce and generally held above buyers' views. Cash oats were strong and urgently sought for by order buyers; rejected advanced about 1c.

Rye—Grade No. 2 was salable at 50½ regular, but held at 51; for rejected 46½ was the best bid.

Flour—There was quite a difference of opinion as to the condition of the flour market, some dealers reporting values lower, while others could see no quotable change, although they considered prices weak and in buyers' favor, owing to the drop in wheat. Trading was light, buyers generally holding off unless an understanding was arrived at. Values weak and unsettled. We quote the inside price on strong grades and outside lots between grades: Extra fancy $5 25@5 50; fancy $5@5 15; choice $4 70@4 80; family $4 15@4 25; xxx $3 60@3 75; xx $3 25@3 35; x $2 80@2 90; superfine $2 55@2 75; fine $2 25@2 30; patent $5 65@6 40. These prices are for lots on arrivals at depot and levee; favorite brands 25c more and order lots higher.

Cornmeal—No change at $2 35@2 40 on order demand; pearl meal grits and hominy $3 50@3 60.

Rye Flour—Unchanged at $3 60@3 75 delivered.

Millfeed was steady and quiet. Sacked bran 61 at mill, 63 this side, 64½ f. o. b. E. track; bulk bran 56 at country point, 57 on P. track.

Hay—For a Monday offerings were extremely small and the market in consequence was firm, though quiet. Prairie advanced, so scarce was it, most of the stock here having been destroyed in the warehouse that burned last Saturday. We quote: This side, Prairie $8 25@9 for prime to strictly prime; $9 25@9 50 for choice to fancy; mixed $7@10 for common to choice; timothy $11@15, top rate for fancy. East side 50@$1 per ton lower than above rated.

Provisions were weak and dull, with the exception of bacon, which held up stiffly and was in demand. Standard mess pork declined to $11 12½, with small sales at that. Some prime steam lard sold loose at 6⅝ and for packed 7¼ was bid. The only sales of dry salt meats were boxed, at 6⅝ for longs, 6¾@6⅞ for c'ribs and 7⅛@7.15 for shorts; loose was quoted at 4.80 for shoulders, 6.60 for c'ribs, 6¾ for longs and 7 for shorts. Packed bacon sold fairly at 5⅝ for shoulders, 7⅛@7¼ for longs, 7⅝@7½ for c'ribs and 7⅝@7¾ for shorts. Hams at 14½@16. Tallow 7¼@7⅜ for prime and strictly prime in oil barrels. In irregular packages ⅛ less; No. 2 6¼@6⅜; grease tallow 6¼. Breakfast bacon 9½@11; on orders ⅛ higher. Grease 4¾@5 for brown, 5¼@5¾ for yellow; 6@6¼ for white. Beef—Extra mess $14@16 per barrel; $7 50@8 50 per half barrel; dried 12 @13; selected 15. Fresh smoked tongues $5@5 50 ₱ dozen. Salt—Michigan $1 25@1 30; top rate this side; ground alum $1 15 per sack—small way 5@10c higher.

Highwines—Strong and active at $1 14; sales 210 bbls. Cincinnati unchanged and firm at $1 13. Chicago $1 16. Peora firm at $1 15.

Lard extremely dull and weak, with buyers standing off for a material decline. Refined was offered at $3 95 and the best bid was $3 90; common could be bought at $3 90, but not worth over $3 85 to sell. In New york the demand is running low at from $4 25@4 20 for common, while the large holders are said to have on hand a surplus aggregating about 30,000 tons.

Grass Seeds—Timothy strong and held higher with none offered. Clover steady at $4 75@5 00; red-top quiet and slow at 35@45. Sales, 200 sks timothy at $1 31, 101 sks clover p. t., 11 sks do at $5.

Flaxseed—Steady, but scarce at $1 33.

Hempseed—Dull at $1 50.

Castor Beans—Steady, with $1 75 best bid for pure.

Cotton Seed—Sales 20,009 bu at $14 for October and November delivery.

Cotton.

The markets were generally lower to-day, the decline in values not being confined to one particular branch of the trade, but was universal, futures alone showing a tendency towards the close to pick up a little. In the various spot markets prices were lower all round, except at few minor points. Liverpool was easier at a 1-16 off and trading was only fair. New York and New Orleans were both a 1-16 lower, middlings being 10⅝ and 10¼ respectively. Locally the movement was active, receipts fair and the market easier at an ⅛ decline. Sales up to 2:30 p. m, 1,040 bales. All the future markets opened lower, Liverpool showing a drop of 2 to 3-64d, New York opening barley steady at a decline of 2 to 11 points from Saturday's close, but almost immediately reacted and showed a gain of a points which, however, was soon lost and prices from this up to the 2:30 p. m. call, fluctuated considerably, and at that hour was a point or two off from the opening; the tone was weak and trading very light. New Orleans opened steady at a decline of 3 to 5 points, and was a few points lower at the 1:05 p. m. call.

LOCAL SPOT QUOTATIONS.

CATTLE—There was a weaker feeling in the market this morning, and although really good grades sold at steady prices the supply was too liberal for the demand, and as a result the general market was unsettled. Desirable native steers were scarce, the most of the offerings including those left over from Saturday, and these were not few, were range cattle, among which were some that could be graded as good. Cows, heifers and mixed lots were again plentiful and the market dull. The receipts of range cattle were large and gave promise of increasing before the day was over and buyers seemed to think that lower prices ought to prevail, although salesmen were not of the same opinion. The movement in the morning was in consequence sluggish, and trading by no means satisfactory.

HOGS—The market at the opening this morning was characterized by a little better feeling and strength, although there was no material change in values, except for good heavies, which sold as high as $5 00 on butchers' account, the range being from $4 90@5 00; other transactions in this description were at $4 70@4 95. Light hogs were slow at $4 80@4 90, and pigs $4 10@4 50. The supply was quite liberal, and later in the day, when advices had been received from Chicago, trading picked up a little, but a weaker market was had, the tendency of values being bearish but unchanged.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 15, 1883.

"HE said we should not prosecute the gamblers."

IT will be well to keep an eye on the present Grand Jury.

WE are fighting the good fight, and we do not propose to weaken or weary.

THE first chap mentioned in the Bible was Chap. 1. To-day we mention Chap. II.

THOSE were brave words spoken at Saturday's meeting. But it will not do to trust to words.

GOV. CRITTENDEN says that he is "as cool as ice." He has certainly gotten himself into a nice box.

THE echoes from the country press are beginning to come in. They are not complimentary to the Governor.

WE publish some additional evidence, which, we are inclined to believe, was given under oath before the last Grand Jury.

WE have not heard anybody express any doubt as to the genuineness of the evidence we have thus far published in this police business.

THERE is one paper in the city which stands right manfully by Dr. LUTZ. By a curious coincidence its president is a member of the present Grand Jury.

MR. CLEVELAND thinks that the pleasure of sitting on the Police Board is poor compensation for being sat on by an indignation meeting of citizens.

THERE is a citizens' association organized to protect St. Louis against the gamblers' ring. It consists of the hundred and odd thousand readers of the POST-DISPATCH.

THE question of the day is not how the short hand notes came to be missing. The question is whether St. Louis shall live as a city or perish as the spoils of a corrupt political ring.

CRITTENDEN says he is still Governor of Missouri. There was a general impression that as far as police matters in St. Louis were concerned, BUTLER and MCENTIRE were governors of Missouri.

[illegible]ttempt was made this morning to en[illegible]e POST-DISPATCH from publishing [illegible]imony before the Grand Jury. If [illegible]empt had succeeded it would have [illegible] triumph, not of law, but of lawless[illegible]

[illegible]REAT many people who were forced to [illegible]o Lawyer KENT's few remarks on [illegible]ge Saturday were heard to remark [illegible] it might be a good idea to let Lawyer KENT get hold of the Ring and talk them to death.

WHEN Brother MCENTIRE read the resolutions of the mass meeting requesting him to resign the Coal Oil Inspectorship, he probably pitied the ignorance of the people who do not know what the Coal Oil Inspectorship is worth.

THE Governor of the State of Missouri returned to the State this morning. He did not announce his coming beforehand, nor did he tarry in St. Louis, as his modesty shrank from the demonstrations with which he had reason to think the citizens would welcome him.

THE cause of virtue can nearly always depend on finding a supporter in the old Republican. The Republican is distressed over the crime committed in borrowing a part of the notes of the Grand Jury investigation. We sometimes wonder what would become of the cause of virtue if it were not for the Republican's support.

THERE was a great deal of human nature in Governor CRITTENDEN's remark to MAXON, that the Police Commissioners ought not to prosecute the gamblers, because it would be a triumph for JOHNSON, the author of the gambling law. The Governor would rather allow crime to flourish than punish it, when it would help a political opponent.

A RING of powerful officials may overawe their subordinates, tamper with jury lists, thwart prosecuting attorneys, obstruct grand jury investigations, and smother up the proofs of an official conspiracy against the laws and the administration of public justice; but not with the consent and connivance of the POST-DISPATCH. It is willing to assume all the risk and responsibility of exposing and defeating them whenever it can.

GOV. CRITTENDEN has returned and indignantly denies that he left the State to dodge the pending Grand Jury investigation of Police Board affairs. He says he will voluntarily appear before the jury and tell all he knows. Impeached as he has been by some of the witnesses before the last Grand Jury, he owes it to himself and to the public to do that very thing, and in printing some of that testimony the POST-DISPATCH renders him material assistance in throwing light on matters that look dark. It also gives him a good chance to explain them to the public, unless he feels as VANDERBILT did when he said "the public be d—d."

LIFTING THE VEIL.

In laying before the public to-day another installment of the startling evidence collected by the last Grand Jury, it is in order to recapitulate a few facts.

While that body was in session, and during the absence of Prosecuting Attorney HARRIS, a squabble in court between his personal representative, Mr. MCDONALD, and Assistant Prosecuting Attorney SULLIVAN, made the public aware that the zeal of Mr. HARRIS' worthy representative in the pending investigation was meeting with official obstruction, with some powerful influence behind it.

When the Grand Jury indicted MCCHESNEY and adjourned with a public statement of the fact that its investigation had met with obstruction, it informed the Governor that it had obtained evidence indicating that a fuller investigation would implicate his appointees in a conspiracy against the laws, and it called on him to make that investigation himself, as he had power to remove the implicated officials.

The city was immediately filled with startling reports about the evidence as involving Governor CRITTENDEN himself, and the common talk was that the whole thing would be smothered under a mountain of official influence. Governor CRITTENDEN intensified this distrust by coldly referring the the matter to the next Grand Jury and leaving the State as soon as it met. Then followed that significant and daring act, the removal of Chief CAMPBELL.

Yet the next morning after that was done, very paper that now at tacks and abuses Mr. MCDONALD for his zeal in fighting the ring had not a word to say editorially about the matter. He saw that public sentiment had to be aroused, and he did arouse it most effectually by publishing a part of the damning testimony in the POST-DISPATCH. Immediately after there was but one sentiment expressed in St. Louis on the subject.

Now, the POST-DISPATCH believes that the publication of all the evidence bearing upon this subject is necessary to a complete triumph of the cause of public justice over a villainous but powerful conspiracy in official circles, and we assume all the responsibility that can attach to such publication. It can hurt no innocent man; it can favor the escape of no guilty one. It can only block the game of smothering investigation and shielding official misfeasance and conspiracy. Let the public know the whole truth, and let every official, high and low, face the music.

HE WILL NOT SHIRK.

In a hurried and fragmentary interview wrung by the pertinacity of a POST-DISPATCH reporter from a distinguished official who happened to be passing through St. Louis this morning, the distinguished official said "THOMAS T. CRITTENDEN never shirks a responsibility."

We are glad to hear it. When we saw a legal opinion of a column and a half in length to the effect that THOMAS T. CRITTENDEN could not lawfully pay attention to the recommendation of the Grand Jury that he should investigate the condition of police matters in this city, we were afraid that he might shirk just a little bit. It looked that way.

In order to prevent him from shirking, to supply him with the requisite gubernatorial backbone as it were, we took the liberty of laying before him the evidence on which the Grand Jury based their recommendations.

If THOMAS T. CRITTENDEN had been at all inclined to shirk, it is no longer in his power to do so. He should thank us for the timely assistance and moral support we have given him.

WORDS AND DEEDS.

The meeting on 'Change Saturday to protest against the present system of police appointment and police management, undoubtedly reflected the sentiment of the honest citizens.

But it is not enough to protest and pass resolutions. Words, no matter how forcible and eloquent, cannot take the place of the deeds which should have been done. Indeed it is even possible that a great part of the evils under which we groan and against which we protest have arisen from our habit of relying too much on empty words and ineffective resolutions.

These evils do not date from to-day. They are inveterate and familiar. They have grown up during years and there has been no period of their growth when their existence has not been clearly manifested. There was no period when it was not easier to extirpate them, to eradicate them utterly, than now. Yet we have tolerated them and they have grown, because we tolerated them.

It has been the familiar experience oft repeated that the class of citizens represented at indignation meetings on 'Change who are the first to protest against the evils they might have prevented are the last to do anything to prevent the evils against which they protest. They are the people who "refuse to have anything to do with politics."

The contrast between the policy of the men who trust to words and those who trust to deeds, between the men who protest and the men who give occasion for protest is full of suggestions. If the meeting on 'Change is to end with words we may be sure that it will only be laughed at by those whom it was deigned to influence.

In its attack on Prosecuting Attorney MCDONALD for permitting the POST-DISPATCH to publish as much of the evidence taken before the late Grand Jury as had been transcribed, the Republican says:

The prevailing excitement would have been no less without it, as the indignation of the public had been already aroused by the announcement in the morning papers of the action of the Police Board in dismissing Chief Campbell.

This is so utterly false that the Republican itself was a conspicuous example of the apathy that prevailed till the evidence was published. The Republican came out the morning after Chief CAMPBELL's removal without a word of editorial comment on that significant and startling incident. Not till MCDONALD and the POST-DISPATCH had aroused the whole city with these revelations did the Republican abandon the editorial reticence with which it had treated the Police Board conspiracy. When forced to come out and show its hand, it also showed its spirit by displaying more animosity against those who made the exposure than against the ring of official conspirators.

Takes the Bakery.

From the Louisiana, Mo., Journal.

The wicked POST DISPATCH recently published an exhaustive account of the Sunday-schools in St. Louis. When it comes to publishing the news, whether moral or immoral, the P.-D., so to speak, "takes the whole bakery."

POLITICAL DRIFT.

THREE millionaire Congressmen live in Boston.

HAVING carried Iowa, the Republicans feel perfectly certain that they can sweep Vermont.

As the agricultural fair is to the avreage statesman, so is the Grand Army of the Republic to Senator Logan.

THE Boston Globe thinks that Fred. Douglass talks as if he thought he was going to be hard up for an office soon.

IT is rumored that Charles Foster will view the Senate of the United States principally from the gallery of the same.

NEXT year the official "explorations" and "inspections" will take in the scenery near the head waters of Salt River.

SENATOR EDMUNDS announces that he will resign the pro tempore Presidency of the Senate as soon as Congress assembles.

NOT the least important result of the Ohio election is the throwing of a wet blanket over Mahone's prospects in Virginia.

GEN. NEAL DOW, of Maine, has taken to letter-writing and is out 'n a strong card against Republican rule in his native State.

COMPETITION for the Republican nomination for Governor of Indiana has fallen off seventy-five per cent since the 9th instant.

THE prohibitory amendment in Ohio got over 300,000 votes, but it is hardly possible that there are so many prohibitionists in private in that State.

THE hope of a Democratic triumph in New Jersey has become almost a certainty since the brilliant Democratic victory in Newark on the 9th.

AN assorted variety of senatorial booms, nicely packed in camphor gum, can be had cheap upon inquiry at the office of the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette.

GARFIELD'S Ohio friends might have done a little better for the g. o. p., if his memory had been less frequently and bitterly assailed by the Stalwarts.

A REPUBLICAN caucus in Boston the other night solemnly declared by resolution that the Mayor was "clay in the hands of the skeleton behind the door." The Mayor will hardly wish to "regard himself, or be regarded, in that bony light."

THE demonstrations of respect to the memory of Tourgueneff, at his funeral in St. Petersburg Tuesday were quite significant. The Russian author's Nihilistic sympathies were quite pronounced. He was a contributor to the Nihilistic organ, and subscribed 1,000 roubles annually, it is said, for its support.

MR. LABOUCHERE thinks "Americans are to blame for standing" the sort of nonsense indulged in recently by some of the English members of the Villard and Hatch parties. Of the Earl of Onslow he says: "They should have put his Lordship out on the prairies and left him to the solitary enjoyment of his dignity."

FOR a man sixty-five years old Governor Butler has laid out a good deal of work in the pending canvass. He opened the campaign in Boston last night in a very lively way, and he will make forty-seven speeches in twenty-three days. He promises to do this and add several extra forenoon meetings in the places through which he may pass. He has fitted up a special car with all the necessaries and many of the luxuries of life, and will conduct his canvass with it as a platform.

Chicago News: Susan B. Anthony has also declined to meet the Prince of Wales. We cannot too highly commend this fresh bud of girlish beauty for vigorously protecting herself against the possibility of scandal. It was Miss Anthony, we believe, who declined to go to see the Apollo Belvidere at the Louvre because she did not deem it consistent with modesty for ladies to call upon the other sex; if the gentleman wished to meet her, he would have to produce references and be introduced at her hotel.

MEN OF NOTE.

EX-SENATOR SHARON pays one per cent of all the taxes collected in San Francisco.

THE Duke of Teck should betake himself to Baden-Baden. There no royal mandate would interfere with his plucking of the unwary.

OPIE READ thinks that the eighty-three humorous papers of Italy have much to do with the great exodus of Italians from their native land.

MR. MARTIN FARQUHAR TUPPER, the writer of "Proverbial Philosophy," gave an address the other day on the art of flying before the Balloon Society.

ANDREW CARNEGIE has given a painted window, in memory of Robert Burns, to Dumferline, Scotland. The window cost the Pittsburg millionaire $10,000.

O'DONNELL expresses the hope that he will be acquitted, "not so much for his own sake as for the sake of those who have so kindly subscribed for his defense."

IT is said that Freddy Gebhardt intended to return from Europe in the same steamer with Mrs. Langtry, but that the latter refused to allow him to do so, and made him precede her.

SENATOR BUTLER of South Carolina is going to convert his cotton plantation on the Savannah into a grass and horse farm, and is now in New England buying stock for a beginning.

THE Comte de Paris, who was married in 1864 to a daughter of the Duc de Montpensier, has one son, the Prince Louis Phillippe Robert, born in England in 1869, and two daughters, Marie Amelie Louise Helene, born in 1865, and Louise Henriette, born in 1871.

MR. LICK'S plan for the distribution of his immense estate has not yet been carried out, and the San Francisco people charge that the trustees are unfaithful. One of the charges is that the trustees have robbed the estate of about $100,000 for their own benefit.

M. DE LESSEPS gave a grand fete at his country residence on Wednesday. The rustic population of the vicinity were generally invited, and the venerable projector of canals outdanced the liveliest and most vigorous of the village girls.

MR. SHIRK of [illegible]u, Ind., owns seventy-three farms in Indiana. [illegible] are all in a high state of cultivation. He also owns thousands of acres in Texas, Arkansas, Michigan and Iowa, nine residences, business blocks without number, some of them being situated in Chicago and Indianapolis, three banks, several stores, and as many mills, which he conducts himself.

MR. GARRETT, the railway president, says that during his last European trip he was impressed with the importance of places of amusement. He is satisfied that no city can thrive as it should without theaters, gardens, parks and the like. "While the old folks are trading," he says, "the young folks are seeing fun. Every city should make itself attractive."

JAMES LOVE is a gentleman residing in Virginia, who appears to have been thoroughly devoted to the sentiment, "Love me, love my dog." When his father-in-law chanced to pull his dog's tail he made a fuss about it, and in the fight which ensued fatally wounded not only his offending father-in-law, but his brother and brother-in-law, who appear to have gone in to help the old man out.

WOMEN OF THE WORLD.

MISS HOWARD, an American lady, is one of the most distinguished physicians in China.

MEISSONIER'S portrait of Mrs. Bonanza Mackay, represents a large-boned, large-featured, elderly woman, with the hands of a ploughman, and a correspondent says she is young and beautiful, with delicate hands. Meissonier must have been mistaken.

MRS. LANGTRY heads the poll with 819 votes in a beauty competition in England. Miss Daisy Vein runs her close with 758 votes. Miss Fortescue, the fiancee of Viscount Garmoyle, receives 119; the eccentric Mrs. Weldon, seventy-three, and the "peerless Evelyn Rayne," only eleven.

A BLACK woman was brought before a magistrate for beating her son, and the judge was delivering a reprimand when the woman broke out with, "Judge, has you eber been a parent to a wooffles yeller boy like dat ar cub of mine?" "Never," ejaculated the Judge with great vehemence, getting red in the face. "Den don't talk!"

THE POLICE SCANDAL.

What the Outside Papers Are Saying About It.

The Nastiest Thing in the State.

From the Jefferson City Tribune.

The St. Louis Police Board is perhaps the nastiest political thing in this State. Its existence is a scandal on the good name of the Democratic party. It has nearly always been run as a political machine in the interest of a lot of political shysters. The new Board, just organized, is evidently a machine with improvements on the old patents. It has just decapitated Chief of Police Campbell, one of the most honest and capable chiefs St. Louis has had for years, and appointed a faded old politician in his place, who, it may be presumed, knows what they want him to do and how to do it.

Crittenden's Work.

From the Laclede County Sentinel.

The gambling ring in St. Louis, with the able assistance of Gov. Crittenden through his Board of Police Commissioners, has succeeded in removing Chief of Police Campbell for no other reason than that he was an incorruptible man. The POST-DISPATCH publishes six columns of testimony taken before the Grand Jury, concerning the movements of the Police Board gambling ring, which proves that the St. Louis gamblers, through Gov. Crittenden, have gained complete control of the St. Louis Police force. The substantial business men of St. Louis are thoroughly disgusted with the condition of affairs, and under the POST-DISPATCH's withering expose developments promise to be rich and racy.

Something Rotten.

From the Saline County Progress.

The Grand Jury of St. Louis say that the gambling ring in St. Louis have been tampering with or attempting to bribe the highest officials in the city department of justice, and they ask Gov. Crittenden to order an investigation. To which the Governor replies that his hands are tied by the law. There is something rotten in Denmark. Gov. Crittenden never stopped to inquire about the law when he pardoned the gamblers in the face of all decency and precedent.

Worse Than Tweed.

From the Moberly Headlight,

Capt. Campbell, Chief of Police of St. Louis, was removed for the sole reason that he could not be bribed by the gamblers or bought by their servants and tools known as members of the St. Louis Board of Police, and one B. P. Taaffe appointed in his place.

Crittenden's Clemency.

From the Clarksville Sentinel.

Gov. Crittenden's clemency towards the St. Louis gamblers, when contrasted with his pertinacious exactitude relative to some other enormous vices, might be construed as indicating a passive friendship for that class of offenders which, if true, could not but eventuate in disgrace alike to the party he represents and to the State.

A Gambler's Outfit.

From the Courier-Journal.

In St. Louis the gamblers are said to own the Police Commissioners. In a Government by the people, for the people, the gambler who doesn't own a Police Commissioner is certainly a most wretched specimen of a gambler.

Chicago's Example.

From the Chicago Tribune.

St. Louis, always ambitious to follow the example of Chicago, has turned over its City Government to gamblers. An invitation should be extended to a few of the prominent Democratic politicians of Chicago "to instruct the gang" in St. Louis in the fine points of the game of politics.

A Rotten Borough.

From the Kansas City Journal.

The St. Louis police muddle, and the published testimony of Chief Campbell shows the rotten borough up in a fearful light. Gamblers, lottery dealers and prostitutes have ruled the city absolutely and broken every law with impunity. The Johnson gambling law and the Downing Sunday law, both of which have been obeyed by every city in the State except this rotten Sodom, have there only caused a laugh.

St. Louis Police Force.

From the LaGrange Democrat.

A hubbub of huge proportions is again disturbing the good people of St. Louis and the State as well, all of which grows out of the management of the police force of that city. It has been believed for some time past that the gamblers of the city were dictating the names of commissioners for the Governor's appointment, and late developments prove that such has been the case. In the place of worthy gentlemen who resigned a year ago, because they could not maintain their self-respect and hold the positions which the Governor had conferred upon them, were appointed two bummers of the worst sort. Gov. Crittenden is responsible for the whole matter, and has by this sunken himself several leagues deeper in the sea of public condemnation.

The St. Louis Police Board.

From the Hannibal Journal.

The publication of the testimony given before the Grand Jury in reference to the management of the St. Louis Police Board has produced a profound sensation in that city, and will awaken a lively interest throughout the State. The testimony only intensifies the fact which all seemed to know, that the Board was in league with the gamblers and that the Chief of Police was powerless to enforce the laws. Ed Butler, McEntire, McChesney and Tom Crittenden seem to have been the precious quartette in league with the gamblers, and through whose influence Chief Campbell has been displaced because he was an honest and efficient man, and refused to become the tool of the ring. Gov. Crittenden, in the present aspect of the situation, seems to have placed himself in a position to almost warrant impeachment proceedings.

A Hopeless Invalid.

From the Kansas City Times.

The police muddles of St. Louis are chronic. The city government seems to be full of ailments, but the police department is a hopeless invalid. Public opinion, it is said, has got all on one side at last, and perhaps now there will be a unanimity.

Justly Indignant.

From the Sedalia Democrat.

The developments in the Police Board of St. Louis are quite interesting, and we fancy Gov. Crittenden will have occasion to interfere in the interest of honesty, truth and justice. Chief Campbell has "talked a good deal," but we apprehend his conversation will be found to have flowed along in the interest of the people. His removal was without palliation or excuse, and the citizens of St. Louis are justly indignant. The people of the interior are not particularly interested in the sensational developments, but they would like to see fair play and an exhibition of common decency, even in the government of St. Louis.

THE METROPOLITAN PRESS.

What the Editors of the New York Journals Are Saying To-Day.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, October 15.—The WORLD says: "Mr. Marble's resignation as Commissioner of Patents has one good feature. It provides a place for Ben Butterworth of Ohio, and will afford that bumptious and office-hunting politician consolation after the recent disastrous defeat of his party. But Mr. Marble resigns in order to begin practice before the department as a patent solicitor and land attorney. After having enjoyed a salary from the Government while posting himself in all the inside details of the business and familiarizing himself with the methods by which claims can be most effectually pushed to success, he steps out and becomes an attorney, as it were, against the Government."

THE SUN.

The Sun says: "Republicans whom the people have discarded as unworthy of confidence, impecunious Republicans, worn-out Republicans, hack Republicans, jobbing Republicans with poor prospects in the new House of Representatives, machine Republicans likely to be out of business, stalwart Republicans heretofore neglected, half-breed Republicans lately converted to Arthur, all sorts of Republicans, in short, are now rushing to Washington to grab the offices and the patronage still in the gift of the President. They need no interpreter to explain the handwriting on the wall. Seventeen months of good stealing remain before the final departure of the grand old party. The managers will make the most of their last opportunities."

THE TIMES.

The Times says: "With characteristic duplicity, Mahone and his campaign orators simulate a joy they do not feel over the victory of the Ohio Democrats when they are addressing white Virginians, and make no attempt to conceal the alarm which actually fills them when they are speaking of that 'great National disaster' to negro audiences. Current reports encourage the hope that from this somewhat prickly and unpleasant Ohio thistle we may pluck a very satisfactory sort of fig in Virginia. A Democratic victory in that State, with its inevitable consequences to Mahone, would be a good thing for the Republican party at large."

THE TRIBUNE.

The Tribune, commenting on the coming election in this State, says: "Only Republicans can defeat their party this time. If every man of them works with the old-time zeal and efficiency we cannot but achieve a substantial victory. We believe that, as a rule, our friends throughout the State appreciate the situation and are organizing thoroughly for victory. The advices received by the State Committee indicate this. We are not able to point, at this writing, to any county that is not doing its duty. But let there be no mistake. A victory which can as well be achieved as not must not be lost by inertness anywhere along the line. The election means very much more than the control of the State offices and the Legislature. That, indeed, is the immediate meaning, and the stake is great enough to enlist the best energies of all. But there is a fuller and more vital meaning. The November result may have a determining influence upon the great struggle of next year for the control of National affairs, and upon the only less important canvass of a year later for a United States Senator."

THE HERALD.

The Herald says: "Representative Cox has reached Washington jubilant from Ohio and reports all the Democrats in that State as wearing halos and all the Republicans as speculating about the cause of their defeat, some attributing it to the liquor law, some to the clairvoyant medium tax and others to the tariff legislation of the last Congress. From this conflict of opinion Mr. Cox frees them by explaining that they are all wrong. He did it. In his entertaining conversation with our Washington correspondent, Mr. Cox remarks: 'The Democratic gains were mostly in places where I visited and spoke.'"

A Hoodlum Critic.

ST. LOUIS, October 14, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

If there had been any doubt of the fact that the Republican is suffering from senile insanity, a glance at its yesterday's musical column would have made the sad fact potent to the most obtuse. It is no secret that the regular musical critic of "old 1808" is its live stock reporter, who is trained during the day by the music of the mule-pens and pig-styes of the National stock yards for the evening's work of sitting in judgment upon the merits of creative and executive artists. To assign such a man to such work is an exhibition of stupidity in the management of the paper for which we were prepared, but when this ignoramus is permitted to make use of his position not only to air his ignorance but also to grossly insult some of our first-class merchants, who are among the most profitable of the Republican's advertising patrons, it seems as if the last vestige of sense had left the Republican's business office as well as its editorial rooms.

There was recently organized in our city a singing society composed of twenty picked singers, a director and a business manager—in all twenty-two—which, at its first meeting, adopted the name of "Handel and Haydn Society of St. Louis." This society, under the leadership of Mr. Charles Kunkel, is to be the principal feature in Kunkel's popular concerts, a series of concerts which are to be given under the auspices of some of our leading business houses, during the coming season, upon the following plan: The admission is to be $1, but to each ticket will be attached a coupon order from Kunkel Bros. upon the houses under whose auspices the concerts are to be given, for one dollar's worth of goods at regular retail rates, provided the order be presented within eight days from the date of delivery. These coupon orders will then be charged to the managers of the concerts at wholesale rates, the difference between wholesale and retail price being the real receipts of the concerts. In other words, these houses sacrifice a certain profit for the sake of furnishing to our people a means of amusement and art education that will really cost nothing. Of course, with its natural opposition to progress, the Republican, in its senile imbecility, had nothing but misrepresentation and sneers for this novel and beneficent undertaking. As soon as he heard it, the fit musical representative of the old dotard nicknamed the society the "Vingtum" (this is meant for vingt et un, but the Republican's French, like its music, is picked up about the hog-pens), and began firing at it little squirts which were amusing through excess of stupidity, but harmless. It may be mentioned parenthetically that the nickname of "The Twenty-one" for a society of twenty-two is particularly felicitous. But now comes the climax: In yesterday's issue, after giving an incorrect list of the society's members, "Old 1808" attempts to explain the business plan of the concerts and says, speaking of the coupon orders we have mentioned: "Upon presenting this coupon at any one of the stores named thereon he is to receive one dollar's worth of such articles as the store has for sale, supposably at their regular retail price." This is nothing less than a covert charge of intended fraud against the houses under whose auspices the concerts are to be given, and among whom figure the Wm. Barr Dry Goods Company, the Mermod & Jaccard Jewelry Company, A. A. Mellier, Burrell, Comstock & Co., the Excelsior Manufacturing Company, M. J. Steinberg, the Goodyear Rubber Company, J. L. Peters, John A. Scholten and others equally prominent in their respective branches of business. If that is not senile imbecility it is something worse. It is probably both.

A Word for Hester.

ST. LOUIS, October 13, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

It is gratifying to notice that if Mr. Sexton is to be superseded as Chief of the St. Louis Fire Department, the last nominee of Mayor Ewing is one that has all the appearance of good faith for the public interest, there being no member of that department superior to Mr. Hester in the execution of the various duties of a fireman. Mr. Hester is competent for the position of Chief of the Fire Department beyond all question. He is cool, sober, brave, and such a man as will reflect credit on the city. We all remember his daring, yet cool action at the Southern Hotel fire. His action did not take the part of rashness, but was the work of a clever, courageous and humane fireman who, though he risked his life to save, and did save the lives of those imperiled, acted with such coolness as to take away all semblance of bravado. Then again, since Mr. Hester's appointment as Assistant Chief he has shown superior adaptability as an officer in charge of his battalion, never allowing any neglect of duty on the part of his men, but exacting from each a full discharge of their duties.

Under all the circumstances, as a change appears certain in the chieftaincy of the Fire Department, I know of no as competent a man to fill the bill as Mr. M. J. Hester, and I think his confirmation on the part of the Council will be one of the most popular acts of the administration.

ONE COMPETENT TO JUDGE.

Maxonian Rule.

ST. LOUIS, October 14, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Maxonian is a good name for the present rule in St. Louis. Car lines take possession of our streets, invent a round rail with a flange on both sides, intended to impede and injure traffic. No redress at courts of law. Judges decide all technicalities in their favor. Car line magnates indorse Cleveland, not one of them conspicuous at the indignation meeting on Saturday. Some day an outraged and insulted populace may teach them they can't always trifle with and wrong an entire community. If they would be wise they would remember the outburst of sympathy the conductors and drivers received two years ago. When Mr. Cleveland gave his vote to remove honest John Campbell, he no doubt belived that the power of the magnates that secured his appointment, would sustain him in his position, but they shrank into their holes on Saturday, at the rebuke of the people.

Bad Streets.

ST. LOUIS, October 12, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Through your valuable paper would you please inform us if our efficient (?) Street Commissioners and contractors are on a vacation? If not, why do they not attend to the streets and crossings at the intersection of Easton and Webster avenues, which are in a fearful condition, as the ground between the car tracks is below the level of the street and a big pond of mud and slush has formed there, making it a hard and dirty job to cross the street. We have called the Street Commissioner's attention to this before. Can nothing be done to relieve us citizens at the corner

Frozen Truth.

ST. LOUIS, MO., October 13, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

One of your reporters told us of a wonderful telescope through which he looked and saw people on a boat on the sea and birds scooping up fish. A False Prophet.

EUREKA SPRINGS, October 12, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I think it was on the 27th of last month that the Globe-Democrat in its issue made the following prophecy: "On the 9th day of next month Judge Foraker will take his seat as Governor of Ohio, and Judge Hoadly will retire to his law office." Now, it is in order for Judge Hoadly to take his seat as Governor of Ohio, and Foraker and the prophet of the Globe-Democrat will make tracks up Salt Creek. GALL.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Please call the attention of the Board of Health to the filthy condition of the alley between Fourteenth st. and Thirteenth and O'Fallen and Biddle street. It has not been cleaned for three years. If not attended to it will surely bring sickness. A VICTIM.

What they Capture.

From the New York World.

For the first time in thirty-two years the Democrats of Ohio have secured possession of the State House at Columbus. Sometimes they have had the Governor with the Legislature against them; sometimes they have had the Legislature with the Governor against them. In January next they will take complete possession of the building, which gives them control of the Janitor, Col. Fred Blenkner, and the State House mule. The party hasn't been so well off in Ohio since the adoption of the new Constitution.

Two-Cent Topics.

From the Chicago News.

The Kansas City Star says that 2-cent journalism is becoming popular all over the country. It probably means 2-cent newspapers. Two-cent journalism will never be any more popular than 10-cent shaves or 5-cent cigars. Two-cent journalism never made a popular 2-cent paper; if it has ever thrived, it has been in connection with the dull, heavy blanket sheets south of Mason and Dixon's line and the weekly story papers published in Boston.

Tilden's Yacht.

From the New York World.

Mr. Tilden has passed the trying ordeal and has been accepted as a member of the American Yacht Club. His charming vessel, the Yosemite, is in excellent sea-going condition. Mr. Tilden could popularize himself at this juncture by tendering his vessel to Charles Foster and his friend, Mr. Foraker, of Ohio. It is understood that they are desirous of making an excursion to the headwaters of the beautiful Salt River.

One of the Dead.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Among the dead on the gory field in Ohio none will be less missed from national politics than Charles Foster, to whom in a great degree the disaster was due. He is one of the smallest of men, the only great thing about him being his ambition. He dictated a personal nomination for Governor, and has himself been an open candidate for the Senate to succeed Mr. Pendleton.

Camp Meeting Advice.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

At the McNutt camp meeting the Rev. Mr. Overton said in his sermon: "Now, young people, a word to you. When dinner is over do not pair off and get in buggies and court, but come into the church and serve the Lord, for this is His day; but if you are determined to court, put it off until Monday morning.

The Informer's Brain.

From the London Telegraph.

Dr. Ensor, district medical officer at Port Elizabeth, took an opportunity to weigh Carey's brain. He reports that, in the whole of his long experience, during which he has given special attention to such subjects, he never knew a brain at once so heavy and so bulky as Carey's. It weighed sixty-one ounces.

The Winston Girls.

From the Winston Pilot.

Butler's Boom.

From the New York World.

Lord Coleridge finds in Benjamin Butler the typical American and genial bon garcon. He has seen no man in this country who impresses him more favorably. This ought to help the Governor in his canvass. Beacon Hill should warm up to a man who is admired by a great British Lord.

A Bashful, but Fortunate Man.

From the Philadelphia Press.

A leave of absence for one month, beginning October 20, was granted to President Fetterolf of Girard College, the application of that official being based on the ground that he desired "to go and assume new domestic relations."

Brain Food.

Dorsey Was Away.

From the New York World.

Mr. Dorsey, the savior of the Republican party, might have pulled the old concern through in Ohio, but unfortunately he is now an humble ranchman in the remote recesses of New Mexico.

Cranium in Cornu.

From the Detroit Free Press.

Too Late.

From the Chicago Times.

The President should make arrangements to fish in the doubtful States. If he had spent his vacation along the Ohio fishing streams he might have saved the State.

Cured.

From the N. Y. Graphic.

The Tribune says the trouble with the Republicans in Ohio was over-confidence. Well, it has been pretty effectually cured, and they won't have it again in some time.

Buried Like Captain Kidd's Pots of Gold.

From the Atlanta Constitution.

MAJOR NICKERSON.

The Departed Officer Writes a Letter to the Press.

False Reports Have Been Circulated Concerning Him—He is Willing to be Treated as a Deserter—Some Spirited Allusions—Altogether an Interesting Document.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, October 15.—Maj. Nickerson, in a letter to the Herald, says: "The dispatch given to the public from the literary bureau of the Adjutant-General's Office, Washington, published on the 7th instant in your edition, as well as throughout the United States, is such a new tissue of falsehoods that, contrary to my custom, I give you an opportunity of correcting it. I exonerate the members of the press from all blame in this case, because I know that they are obliged to publish what the authorities in the Adjutant-General's office give them, or they are tabooed, and not allowed to have any so-called news. The Literary Bureau referred to is controled by Adjutant-General Drum, and its first duty is to laud him, and its second to villify all persons towards whom he is inimical. The late Surgeon-General of the Army, Gens. Barnes and Crane, Commissary Gen. MacFeely, the

GOVERNOR OF THE SOLDIERS' HOME,

Gen. Sturgis, Commissioner of Pensions Dudley, and hosts of others have been attacked through this source. Whenever an order is issued from the War Department that is likely to commend itself to the public the literary bureau gives a dispatch to the gleaners for the press that Adjutant General Drum has ordered thus and thus. If it be a matter that requires bolstering, then the bureau says that Gen. Sherman has issued the order, although he may at the time be in the wilds of Montana and totally ignorant on the subject. But if it be an order or statement of doubtful propriety, like an attack upon some officer, then the bureau causes it to be stated that Secretary of War Lincoln has so ordered, thus making a great office and a great name responsible for the mud thrown. For months all the guns of this literary bureau, shotted with calumny and fired by

THE HAND OF MALICE,

have been turned upon me, the latest being the shot to which I refer. This says that at last the War Department has learned my whereabouts, and immediately sent me an order to reply in person, to which order a reply had been received from me refusing to obey; that I have rendered a false report of my address and disobeyed Gen. Sherman's order to remain in Washington; that I now defy the Secretary of War, and will be treated as a deserter. The facts are that the War Department has known my whereabouts since last June, and has had an agent with me since the first of July, whose orders and instructions have long since been well known to me. I have not refused to obey the Secretary's order, nor had I at that time, owing to an illness of several days duration, sent any reply at all. My reply, when it comes, will probably not be given to the press verbatim, but in it I state that as soon as my health will permit and the Adjutant-General has called in the men whom he has

INSTRUCTED TO ARREST ME

as soon as I cross the line, thus permitting me to come to Washington without being ignominiously treated, I shall have pleasure in reporting as directed. I did not disobey Gen. Sherman's order not to leave Washington, because he never issued any such order. Had he issued such an order it would have been just as illegal as the one I did receive, and I should have been justified in disobeying it, because, being an officer on the retired list, the law provides that I may go where I please inside the limits of the United States, engage in any business I chose; shall not be assigned to any duty whatever, excepting only details for the Soldiers' Home and as Professor at the Military College, made at my own request. In May, Adjutant-Gen. Drum and Colonel Barr, the Secretary of War and Gen. Sherman being absent, knowing that I had requiring my attention, sent me an alleged order directing me to remain in Washington. At my request a gentleman of high character and standing, went to the depot, to ask that the alleged order be revoked and I be allowed to go and attend to business. He returned with the information that Gen. Sherman and the Secretary were absent, but that he had seen Gen. Drum and Colonel Barr and that they had caused the order to be issued on account of a domestic trouble in which I was involved, and they would not suspend or revoke it. They had no more right to issue such an order than the Mayor of New York would have to issue an order that I should not leave the city of New York. That I had refused to obey the Secretary's order to remain or defied him, is absolutely false, as my letter recently forwarded will show. But the last part of the dispatch from the Bureau says that I will now

EMPORTANT BUSINESS ELSEWHERE

BE TREATED AS A DESERTER.

This, if true, would be some comfort, as deserters are often treated with justice, and in any case I have had no intimation of any such intention. But is it not true. It may be, and doubtless is true, that they will try to unlawfully stigmatize me as a deserter, but desertion I define to be an absence without the intention of ever returning. It will be difficult to make the army or public believe that I have deserted the colors under which for more than twenty-two years, I have rendered loyal service, especially at the instance of two officers who, during the entire war, remained as far away from any colors that required defending as it was possible for them to get, and who wore about the same number of dishonorable brevet commissions as I wear honorable scars."

It is signed A. H. Nickerson, Major United States Army, retired, and dated Thorold, Canada, October 12, 1883.

AMERICAN STOCKS ABROAD.

Field and Dowd Back from Europe—What They Saw in Paris.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, October 15.—Mr. Cyrus W. Field, jr., and Mr. Wm. Dowd, arrived on the steamer Oregon yesterday, after being one month abroad.

"How did you enjoy yourself?" asked a reporter of Mr. Field, whom he met last night.

"Very well, indeed. It was a short stay, and I was so full of business that I had little time to look at anything except to fulfill my mission as soon as possible and get away. We transacted very important business and very successfully. I have been to London on various occasions, but I never saw the English moneyed public so interested in our affairs as they are just now. There is one thing that must be overcome, and then we will be placed on a solid footing with our English brothers."

"What's that?"

"Why, the lack of confidence, and I am glad to see that that is fast being overcome. Englishmen are peculiar; they don't desire to invest in anything that the Yankees fight shy of.

THERE IS ONE PECULIARITY

that Englishmen cannot understand, and that is building a new road parallel to an old one for the purpose of running it out. It appears so much like a 'fake,' and no doubt it is, that they refuse point blank to invest a dollar in it. It is surprising how well posted the London stock market is about Wall street affairs. Every move is closely studied and the nightly dispatches are as complete as the reports of our daily papers. The idea that most of the English capital is already invested is entirely false. There is more money begging an investment in London to-day than ever before, and bankers are looking toward each other to break the ice, and as soon as that occurs, why then the amount of money that will reach us will be greater than even the most sanguine men expect. You know when they buy they pay in full and take with them. Bank discount is very low, and the rich fellows don't care to touch anything but good American stocks. They won't buy any native or continental securities; in fact, they are more suspicious about them than about ours."

"What is the cause of this?"

"Bad harvests." Year after year the agriculturists are growing poorer, and more and more. While looking over the statistics I find that we shall send more breadstuffs to France this year than to England. This may seem strange, but the condition of France is deplorable just now, while England is reviving somewhat, and her harvest of this year was far better than for several years back."

CROPS ARE FAILING

"How about your trip to Paris?"

"Glad you remind me. I had almost forgotten about it. I arrived at the depot five minutes after Alfonso got there, and just as Mr. Dowd and I got out of the train we heard the most unearthly shouting. On looking about we saw men, women and children with clubs, brooms and sticks, crying: 'Down with the Spanish King!' I never saw such a scene in Paris before, and it would not have taken much to start

A BIG STREET FIGHT.

We went to the hotel a short time afterwards and the people were somewhat quieted, but during the night the trouble broke out afresh and the crowd marched to the Hotel De Ville, singing the 'Marseillaise' and threatening to burn down the place if the 'little Spanish dog' did not get out. It was a very wise move on Alfonso's part to leave Paris before the expiration of twenty-four hours. The French people were terribly worked up about it, and they openly termed it a part of treason and a breach of faith."

MAPLESON'S COMPANY.

Their Arrival in New York—The Rivalry in Italian Opera.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, October 15.—Col. J. H. Mapleson, Mrs. Mapleson, Mme. Etelka Gerster-Gardini, Mme. Pappenheim, and the other principal members of Col. Mapleson's opera company, arrived yesterday in the steamer City of Berlin from Liverpool. Col. Mapleson was seen at the New York Hotel last evening.

"I am ready for the fray," said he. "I have marshaled my forces for the opening engagement next Monday evening, and when the Patti arrives I shall be fully prepared for a vigorous campaign. The combat will be short, quick and decisive. Confidentially, I don't believe that New York is able to support two Italian operas simultaneously. The draft on one's pocket-book is too great. It's all very well to charge $6 for a seat on the opening night, but will you get it after the first night? That's the question. The first six weeks of the season will decide it, and I only hope that the decision will not be unfavorable to me. Mr. Abbey and myself will present a list of artists such as no country in the world has ever before heard in the same season. His company is a good one, and as to mine, Patti, Gerster and Pappenheim speak

OR RATHER SING FOR THEMSELVES.

Besides, I am remarkably strong in tenors. All young men, with fresh, wonderful voices. My patrons have already taken almost all the seats. They belong to the blue blood classes, and have eagerly taken up the gauntlet thrown down by 'Les Nouveaux riches.' The latter may have the long purses, but yet may not feel inclined to stand the drain which will be put upon them."

"How does it happen, Colonel, that both opera-houses open the same night?"

"They have taken my nights to vex me, you know. For years I have always begun the season on the third Monday in October and given opera on Monday, Wednesday and Friday nights. I can't see why they didn't choose Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays for their opera nights. Had they done so the patrons of the opera could attend a performance any night in the week.

Madame Gerster-Gardini was seen at the Everett House. "I am very glad," she said, "to appear again before a New York audience. It is two years since I was here last and I hope that in that time I have not been forgotten. I will sing an entirely new opera this season and two roles which I have never before sung here.

THE NEW OPERA WILL BE 'LAKME,'

now so successful in Paris, and in which your young countrywoman, Mme. Van Zandt, is making so great a furor."

"Is there any prospect of your appearing at the new opera house?"

"Not this season. Colonel Mapleson wanted to have me come here last year, but I promised that I would come with him this season. When Mr. Abbey wished to engage me I did not feel at liberty to take back my promise, though at that time there was no contract. I am getting a very large salary. I have sung for Colonel Mapleson both here and in London and he has always paid me promptly. I expect that he will be very successful in his season and I hope that Mr. Abbey will be the same."

Mme. Papperheim and Mme. Gerster gave a concert on board the vessel for the benefit of the sailors' widow and orphan fund. The passengers were very liberal in their donation and a good sum for fund was netted. Mme. Papperhem will not sing on the opening night, but on the second night of the subscription. It is not known what opera she will appear in.

THE COLUMBIA LIFE.

The Affairs of the Company Turned Over to the Insurance Department.

Mr. L. E. Alexander, for the past six years receiver of the Columbia Life Insurance Company, filed a resignation of the receivership in Judge Thayer's division of the Circuit Court this morning. The following is the order of the court in the premises:

"It is ordered by the court that the resignation of the office of Receiver of the Columbia Life Insurance Company this day filed by L. E. Alexander be and the same is hereby accepted, and that the further administration of said trust be turned over to the Superintendent of the Insurance Department of the State of Missouri, and that the title to all property, real and personal, of said company remaining undisposed of be and the same is hereby fully vested in said superintendent and the duties heretofore vested in L. E. Alexander, receiver, by previous orders and decrees herein be and the same are hereby devolved upon said superintendent. It is further ordered that said L. E. Alexander within ten days from this date file in this court his final report of all moneys and property now in his hands or under his charge for examination and approval, and that he also execute to said superintendent a conveyance of all his right, title and interest as receiver in and to all property situated outside of the State of Missouri."

A POST-DISPATCH reporter called on Mr. Alexander to learn his reasons for resigning from the receivership. Mr. Alexander stated that there was really no further use for his trust, as the affairs of the Columbia Life were practically wound up and were nearly ready to be closed. After the last dividend has been paid there will be very little to attend to. Mr. Alexander said he had had a long, hard siege with the company, but only some unimportant litigation remained on hand and that could be attended to by the Superintendent of Insurance. The properties of the company are mostly disposed of except some that is in litigation. The litigation now on hand may not be settled for several years, and he did not think it worth while to retain his trust for that purpose only.

COL. HOGELAND.

A Newsboys' Parade—A Scheme for a Home.

Those people who are on Fourth and Fifth streets, between Washington avenue and Walnut streets, this evening, shortly after 6 o'clock, will in all probability look upon a parade that will be as interesting as were those of the week before last, although it will not be so gorgeous, nor will it be illuminated with colored lights.

Col. Alexander Hogeland, of Louisville, Ky., who has been for a number of years engaged in the work of establishing homes for newsboys in many of the larger cities, is here taking preliminary steps toward the establishment of such an institution in this city. He solicits the attendance of every newsboy and bootblack in the city at half past 6 o'clock this evening, on the corner of Washington avenue and Sixth street, where it is intended to form a marching column, which will be headed by the banner of the Newsboys' Home of Louisville. The procession will march to all the newspaper offices and give three cheers for the press; subsequently Colonel Hogeland will deliver an address to the boys from the Court House steps on Fifth street.

Colonel Hogeland is the author of a very interesting work called "Ten Years Among the Newsboys." The book abounds in incidents in boy and girl life, with illustrations in the daily life of the newsboy. Its sale at 50 cents per copy is the support of the work of the author among our youth. It is a beautiful present for children and those who can should take a copy and in this way assist a purely benevolent and philanthropic work among the neglected boys of the country.

A. V. VENNES, St. Joseph, Mo., says after taking two bottles of Brown's Iron Bitters he was able to eat the first hearty meal in four years.

A FESTIVAL for the benefit of St. Patrick's Parish will be given at St. Patrick's School Hall Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings of this week.

RUPTURE

Dr. F. T. Smythe, President of the Vienna Institute for the cure of Rupture, No. 1105 Olive street (formerly 1113 Washington avenue), has returned from Vienna, Austria, and his European tour, and can be found at the new location (1105 Olive st.) by those in need of his services. Dr. Smythe's vast experience and widely known success in the treatment of Rupture in this and other countries renders a great display of references unnecessary. The following well-known citizens of this city are of the great number we have cured of Ruptures. Rupture produces many painful and fatal diseases, such as diseases of the kidneys, bowels, bladder, fevers, rheumatism, neuralgia, loss or impaired sexual power, backache, womb diseases, etc. etc.

AT THE EVERETT HOUSE.

Rooms No. 3, No. 5, No. 8 and No. 10, for ten weeks, commencing Monday, October 15, and, remaining till Saturday night, December 22. Four of The Drs. K & K Surgeons can be consulted free. One of the surgeons speaks and writes German, and German patients can consult with him in their own language. The time will not be extended, as these surgeons fill an appointment at New Orleans, La., during January and February, and in San Francisco, Cal., during March and April, returning to St. Louis to remain during May and June. The Drs. K & K Surgeons, Dr. J. C. Kennedy, Principal, are permanently established at 163 Elm street, Cincinnati, O., and 631 Fourth avenue, Louisville, Ky. The largest medical and surgical establishment in the world, more capital invested, more talent employed, more cases treated and more cures effected than by any other one establishment in the world, 25 doctors. Eight remain at the Cincinnati office, four at the Louisville office, and thirteen visit the principal cities in the United States, for the purpose of consulting with, examining and treating patients afflicted with every form of disease. At the urgent request of many patients and correspondents in Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas, Kansas and Iowa, four of the most eminent and successful of

THE DRS. K & K SURGEONS,

Each one of whom, by long experience and appropriate training, has attained the highest degree of skill and proficiency in his own specialties, have been commissioned to remain at the Everett House, St. Louis, from October 15 to December 22, 1883. We thus place the benefits of a personal consultation within the reach of all the residents of this section of the country.

Consultation Free.—All afflicted persons who are anxious about their condition, and who earnestly wish to know the exact nature, extent and curability of their disease, should call for an examination, whether they desire treatment or not. Consultation free, and examinations are free to all who desire to take treatment. Persons calling may feel assured of a thorough examination of each particular case, and a candid opinion based upon a large experience; honorable square dealing, with no encouragement without a prospect of a cure or permanent benefit. Investigate and decide for yourself. You will not be urged to take a treatment.

Persons who have been pronounced incurable by other physicians, and those suffering with any form of chronic or long-standing disease, or deformity of any name or nature, are requested to call. We have effected cures where many of the most skillful physicians have failed, hence our large and increasing business, the result of past success.

Mode of Treatment—Those who desire treatment (if, on examination, they are found curable), will be furnished with remedies, prepared under the personal supervision of the doctors, by an experienced prescription druggist, a graduate of the pharmaceutical department of the Michigan State University at Ann Arbor. We are not engaged in the introduction of any patent nostrums. We have no secret medicines, but prescribe for each patient such remedies as we know by experience will be successful. We treat all patients by the month, and furnish all instruments, apparatus and remedies in quantities to last at least one month. Sometimes we prepare remedies to last three or six months, and we demand the cash on delivery of the remedies for the time prepared for, and on repetition of treatment at the beginning of each subsequent month. Those who find it impossible to call on the doctors at the Everett House, should write to the The Drs. K & K Surgeons, 163 Elm street, Cincinnati, O.

OPINIONS OF THE CINCINNATI PAPERS.

The Drs. K & K Surgeons are extensive advertisers, and their wonderful success is evidence that the apparently incredible statements of cases treated and cured by them are true. Their offices occupy the entire building, 163 Elm street. There are eight physicians and surgeons in constant attendance at the office, a competent chemist and his assistants, corresponding secretary, porters and all other necessary assistance. Eighteen persons are employed, and they are busy from early morn until late at night. Yes, it pays to advertise; but the Rev. Beecher says: "The truth should be told every time."—[Enquirer.

Dr. J. C. Kennedy, principal of the Drs. K & K Surgeons, has made the most liberal use of money in furnishing his offices with everything that can contribute to the comfort and convenience of his patients, and with all the remedies, instruments, appliances, etc., that the most advanced medical and surgical science can offer for the mitigation of suffering and the cure of disease. He also spends money without stint to secure the best professional assistance that can be had. The unequaled success of The Drs. K. & K. Surgeons is conclusive evidence that capital is just as necessary to a doctor as it is to a merchant. It is impossible for any physician to give the proper treatment to all his patients unless he has all the facilities at his command, and as some of these can only be obtained at great expense, they are not employed by those doctors who do not believe in investing capital in their business, or who have none to invest.—[Commercial.

Dr. J. C. Kennedy, principal of The Drs. K & K Surgeons, 163 Elm street, by years of patient, persevering study, guided by the dictations of intelligence and common-sense, has overthrown in the minds of a great mass of people some of the most dangerous fallacies of medical practice. He has permanently established in this city the most complete, as well as the most popular and successful medical and surgical establishment in this country, an institution that is patronized and supported by the best element of a confident and grateful people. His unparalleled popularity is well earned and justly deserved. Unscrupulous schemers, after the people's money, will support any error that promises to maintain or enlarge their business, but when the propagation of such an error becomes dangerous to health and life, as it does in the medical profession, a successful advocate of common-sense methods is doubly welcome.—[Gazette.

"By their works ye shall know them." The Drs. K & K Surgeons are known by their success, and desire those who do not know them, and especially those who contemplate treatment, to investigate and satisfy themselves of the merits of their establishment. Every person who has ever visited their office, and investigated their resources has gone away satisfied and pleased. The percentage of cures is greater, and the percentage of deaths less, among the patients treated by The Drs. K & K Surgeons than among those of any doctor or doctors in this city. These facts speak for themselves. Let the afflicted ponder them well, for success is the most satisfactory proof of skill.—[Penny Post.

Dr. J. C. Kennedy, principal of The Drs. K & K Surgeons, 163 Elm street, actuated by the incentive of an ardent love for his profession, encouraged by a faculty for grasping its most intricate problems, and guided by a never-failing interest in his patients' welfare, has won a reputation to which few have attained. His business being in keeping with his fame as a successful surgeon, he has found it necessary to engage a complete staff of professional assistants. These have been selected from among the ablest and the best at high salaries, and no expense has been spared to furnish them with all the advantages that modern science offers to aid the educated surgeon in his skillful treatment of difficult cases. They deal with all men on strictly honorable principles. If patients can possibly be cured The Drs. K & K Surgeons will cure them. If they are incurable they are told so in the beginning. Everything connected with the business is open for investigation, and the people are invited to see and judge for themselves. As a natural consequence, their business is rapidly increasing, and their establishment is becoming more popular every day. No matter what doubtful scemes other doctors may have to resort to to make a living, The Drs. K & K Surgeons will never have to wait for business, nor will they ever lack for an honorable reputation.—[Volksblatt.

The great medical and surgical establishment of The Drs. K & K Surgeons, 163 Elm street, occupies the whole building, which has been thoroughly repaired, refurnished and arranged to suit the requirements of their business and the convenience and comfort of their patients. Elegant and spacious waiting rooms are set apart for the reception of ladies and gentlemen. Each surgeon has private consulting and operating rooms furnished with all the most approved instruments and apparatus; there is a general consultation room where all the surgeons meet for the examination and consideration of critical cases; an apartment exclusively devoted to the application of the various forms of electricity and galvanism; a corresponding room and various other apartments devoted to special purposes. There are eight skilled surgeons in constant attendance at the office, a practical dispensing chemist of long experience, correspondents, porters and all other necessary assistance. The offices are crowded with patients from morning till late in the evening, and all go away happy and satisfied, for The Drs. K & K Surgeons never fail to do all that can be done for their patients. Those who take treatment from them belong to the most intelligent classes. Thousands are ready to testify and have already testified that The Drs. K & K Surgeons cured them after all others had failed. The establishment is always open for investigation and all are invited to call and satisfy themselves before taking treatment.—[Volksfreund.

Dr. J. C. Kennedy's medical and surgical establishment, which is frequently advertised in our columns, is located at 163 Elm street, nearly opposite the offices of the Standard. The Drs. K & K Surgeons are doing a very large and successful business, and enjoy a high reputation. We have had some dealings with them, and have every reason to believe that they are honorable gentlemen and reliable and skillful physicians.—[Christian Standard.

Wonderful what real ability in any profession will do, and how rapidly people will find it out. You can now scarcely find a person who is not more or less familiar with the wonderful successes of the Drs. K & K Surgeons. These gentlemen came here entire strangers, but they have won the favor and confidence of this community in a wonderful degree, and have done it, too, by their success in the treatment of all classes of cases which have come to them. Each one of the eight surgeons is devoted to his special branch, giving his whole time and talents to the study and practice of all the intricacies which it can present. It is this perfect system which has accomplished so much, and which is in the very nature of things, is so far in advance of any one man, be he ever so able or industrious in his profession. The Drs. K. & K. Surgeons are located at 163 Elm street, where they are always glad to see those needing their services. A call entails no obligations to employ them, but will give you an opportunity to see the men and judge for yourself. Dr. Kennedy, who is at the head of the firm, is so courteous and gentlemanly in his bearing that all who call are made to feel at ease, and are sure to secure an intelligent and interesting analysis of their cases. With him there is no groping in the dark. He always knows what he is talking about, and shows you that he does. It is a pleasure to meet and conversa with such a man, and all who meet him bear us out in this assertion.—[Times-Star.

The Drs. K & K Surgeons, at the Everett House, St. Louis, till Dec. 22, 1883.

Heart Disease and Dropsy Cured.—M. Stephen Egen, formerly agent of the Cincinnati, Indianapolis, St. Louis and Chicago Railroad at Cincinnati, son of Mr. John Egan, general passenger agent of the same road, says: "Death stared me in the face when Dr. J. C. Kennedy, principal of the Drs. K & K Surgeons, who called in, and I am certain that I would have been in my grave before this if he had not treated me. I had palpitation of the heart and dropsy. My limbs were each as large as my body, and four of the best known physicians in the city had exhausted their skill on me, and when Dr Kennedy took my case my friends had given me up. He said he could cure me, and he did it. I had been sick for six months, and in two weeks from the time he examined me, I was up and out." Mr. Egan is now the gentlemanly clerk of the Walnut Street House, Cincinnati, and will answer any questions in regard to the above.

Female Weakness, Indigestion and Rheumatism.—Mrs. Cora White, No. 72 East Seventh street, Cincinnati, says: "Dr. J. C. Kennedy, of the Drs. K & K Surgeons, was the seventh doctor who attended me. One by one six of the best physicians of this city gave me up after getting large fees. For many years I had been a victim of female weakness, complicated with indigestion, and, to add to my sufferings I was twice afflicted by that painful ailment, inflammatory rheumatism, and was soon reduced to a skeleton. For over a year my limbs were constantly swollen, and during that time I never had on either a shoe or a stocking, but kept my feet in cotton batting, and seldom ventured to take a step. I had not menstruated for eighteen months when Dr. Kennedy was called, but in two weeks, under his treatment, I was out of bed; in another week I was down stairs for the first time during eight months. In two months I walked down to the office of the Drs. K & K Surgeons, and ever since have been able to attend to my household affairs. I feel so thankful I do not know how to express my gratitude."

Hip Joint Disease Cured.—Mrs. Kate Linfoot, wife of Henry Linfoot, who lives in the fine residence, 1397 Scott street, Covington, Ky., says: "Our boy Clifton, aged eight, was examined by a noted Cincinnati surgeon, who pronounced the case hip joint disease and told me I would have to put the child to bed for six months while he would keep the limb encased in a plaster of paris bandage. Rather than to place the child under such torturing treatment we decided to take him to the Drs. K. & K. Surgeons, having heard that they treated such cases successfully without braces or appliances. The instant Dr. Kennedy looked at the boy he pronounced the case of hip joint disease, and said he could cure it. I did not believe him, but he gave us medicine, and plasters to apply to the limb, and we went home and followed his directions. The child had not slept an hour at a time for several weeks, but about the third week after we took him to Dr. Kennedy the pain grew less, and he slept well ever since, and now, after six months' treatment we consider him cured. The leg was an inch longer than the other, now it is neither longer nor shorter. It is not stiff, painful or sore, is perfectly straight, and there are no signs of abscess. We shall continue treatment until we are sure there will be no relapse." This statement is published with the full and generous consent of Mr. and Mrs. Linfoot, who will take pleasure in furnishing any further information that afflicted persons may desire in regard to the case.

Epileptic Fits Cured.—Mr. John Gabel, Jr., of Harrison, O. aged 19 years, had been subject to falling fits for eight years. He commenced treatment with The Drs. K & K Surgeons, October 11, 1881, and has not had a fit since commencing the use of the remedies. As nearly two years have elapsed since that time, it is safe to say that the disease has been completely eradicated. John Heminenger, of Adams township, Lancaster county, Pa., has been subject to epileptic fits for eight or nine years. He commenced treatment with The Drs. K & K Surgeons in January, 1872, and continued for nearly two years. A few months since a letter was received from him in which he states that his spells have never returned since treated by them ten years ago.

Nervous Debility Cured.—Mr. M. B. J., of Lexington, Ky., was prostrated and broken down, both mentally and physically, by excesses and overexertion. He had been obliged to give up a lucrative business because he had become incapable of attending to his duties. When he first consulted the Drs. K & K Surgeons he was a wreck, physically and mentally but little better than an imbecile. He was gloomy and despondent, continually brooding over his miserable condition, and a short time previous had attempted suicide. Six months' treatment restored him to physical and intellectual vigor, and he is once more established in successful business, with bright hopes and prospects for the future.

Catarrh Cured—Saved from a Terrible Death.—Mr. Schwartz of Memphis, Tenn., had catarrh in its most aggravated form. His breath was horribly offensive, and the loathsome disease had commenced to eat away the bones and cartilage of his nose. He had seen another case similar to his own in which the patient's nose was entirely destroyed, and the disease extended into the head till it reached the brains, causing death. Mr. S. knew that unless he found relief he would die the same way. When his doctor told him he was incurable he was in a terrible state of mind. He lost no more time but went immediately to Drs. K & K Surgeons, and put his case in their hands. He was soon overjoyed to find the progress of the disease checked, and that he was beginning to improve. He continued the treatment faithfully for nine months, and was cured. We have cured the worst cases of catarrh we ever saw, and if those who wish to satisfy themselves of our success will call at the Everett House they can see a case that we cured after the nose was partially destroyed.

Consumption and Uterine Disease Cured.—Mrs. Sarah A. Smith of Nashville, Tenn., commenced treatment with the Drs. K & K Surgeons in June last. She was much emaciated; prostration and debility very marked; pulse over 100; no appetite; pains in the chest: cough and expectoration profuse; had not menstruated for four months; respiratory sounds very indistinct and confused; explosive bubbling sounds as the air passed through the mucus; afternoon chills; fever and night sweats: all complicated and exaggerated by a very decided uterine disease, ulceration and displacement. She had been pronounced incurable, and we could give but little encouragement, but promised relief, which did not come until she and her friends had become discouraged because, instead of relief and improvement, all her symptoms appeared to grow worse. We admitted that the symptoms were discouraging, but we could detect evidence of improvement, and in sisted on her continuing treatment. After much hesitation she did so, and at the end of the fourth month she and her friends could observe a slight improvement. At the end of the fifth month a decided improvement, and now, at the end of the sixth month, she writes: "I have improved every way; no cough no night sweats, no pains in the chest, no bearing down pains, no discharge; have been regular this month; appetite good, bowels regular; sleep well, and have gained twenty-seven pounds in weight. Send me one more month's medicine. I hope it will be the last, I am so tired of taking medicine." We have cured this lady, and she paid us just $85, and we have done at least $250 worth of professional services for her. The correspondence that has passed between us would fill a volume of several hundred pages. She is the party benefited, not us.

Treatment by Correspondence—While personal consultation and examinations are always preferable, we treat patients successfully by mail and express in every state in the Union, and throughout North America. A large experience has taught us how to manage this department of our business with unparalleled success, and the afflicted, who find it inconvenient or impossible to call on us personally, can be treated and cured at their own homes. Patients should describe their symptoms plainly and fully in their own language and not hesitate to mention all particulars, as all correspondence is kept strictly confidential, and no one sees patients' letters but the doctor. Upon receipt of your address and two letters postage stamps we will send you a question blank to aid you in describing your case, and a copy of our ILLUSTRATED GUIDE TO HEALTH, a large and instructive paper, containing articles on hygiene, diet, the laws of health, and habits of life in general, concise and practical treatises on all diseases, and much valuable information for people of both sexes in all ages. Sent free to any address on receipt of a two-cent stamp. All letters should be addressed to The Drs. K & K Surgeons, 163 Elm Street, Cincinnati, O.

TRUSTEES' SALES.

WHEREAS, Frank Schulte and Lena Schulte, his wife, by their deed of trust dated April 12, 1878 and recorded in the office of the Recorder of the County of St. Louis, State of Missouri, in book 7, page 268, conveyed to the undersigned trustee, the following described real estate, lying and being in the said County of St. Louis, to-wit: Lots four (4) and five (5) of Livergood's subdivision of the southern portion of Survey No. 153, as represented on a plat filed with a Commissioner's report in partition made by order of the Circuit Court in November term, 1874, No. 62, being ½ undivided of 34 25-100 acres, and also all their right, title and interest of lot No. 6 of said subdivision, being ½ of the right of dower of Hannah Livergood, and also all interest to said land in fee simple, acquired of Thos. L. Livergood, by deed dated May 10th, 1853, recorded in book 158, page 532; and also all inherited by him of his father, Lewis Stevens, and the fee simple title hereby conveyed, containing 22 62-100 acres undivided interest. Also, three 85-100 acres, bounded as follows: North by said Schulte, east by Robt. Stevens, south by Wild Horse Creek Road, west by Julius Rieger, being in U. S. survey 164, all being in Meramec Township, and in the County of St. Louis, State of Missouri; which said conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of one promissory and negotiable note in said deed described. Now, at the request of the legal holder of said note, and in pursuance of the conditions of said deed of trust, I shall, on

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1883,

between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. of that day, at the east front door of the Court House, in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, proceed to sell said real estate at public sale, to the highest bidder, for cash, for the purposes of said trust.

TAILOR-MADE.

Characteristics of the Stylish Habits Now Worn by Women of Fashion.

From the Philadelphia Times.

All the tailor-made cloth costumes and riding habits that are justly entitled to the distinctive name are cut and made by men who have the strength to press with twenty-pound weight irons and the skill to give desirable shape by stretching the cloth garment where form is needed. With habits riding corsets are indispensable, and these are stouter than ordinary corsets, with strong bust and front support, but cut short on hips.

A stylish habit from Wilmerhausen, tailor to the Queen, was made by men, hand-sewed and partly shaped by pressing irons. The seams are neatly felled over, giving a smooth inside finish, the top and bottom of seams being carefully sewed.

The habit skirt is double-faced on portions next to saddle and pommel, and it is not so long as the skirts of past years. These habit tailors have in their establishments a wooden horse, upon which the lady trying on her habit is seated to see that the hang and set of the skirt is perfect. Some riding basques have rolling collar, white or yellow vests, and are worn with cravat. Pantaloons and men's top boots with spur complete the toilette.

The Empress of Austria wears a habit of green cloth, made after the above-given style, finished with velvet collar and cuffs and worn with mousquetaire gloves and cavalier hat with long plume.

An imported tailor-made cloth suit is lined with silk, has whalebone in front next to the edge, and is closed in front of corsage by small, flat, vegetable ivory buttons, hand polished, and strongly sewed on with thread as they are on a man's coat, and stayed with canvas beneath the lining.

The skirt shows a box-pleated front in center of side pleatings turning to front, with smaller box-pleats and cluster side pleats all round other portions, apron above pleatings in graceful fold arrangement.

An English tweed suit has coat basque, secured with mottled ivory buttons, and a pleated skirt with draped apron above.

The Pool Sellers' Loss.

NEW YORK, October 15.—The tapping of the wires of the Western Union Telegraph Company, by means of which bogus dispatches were sent all over the country, announcing the false results of the Jerome Park races, and through which nearly $100,000 was lost by pool sellers throughout the United States, remains as much of a mystery as ever. The Western Union is having a strict inquiry made into the affair, and if the guilty parties are discovered they will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Ex-pool sellers or employes of pool sellers are believed to have planned the fraud.

RIOT IN CHINA.

Buildings Belonging to Foreigners Burned—Flags Pulled Down.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL., October 15.—A Coolie mob made a desperate attack on the foreign residence and corporation of Shamen, Canton, on the 11th of September. As the steamer Haukow was leaving the wharf a Chinaman fell into the water and was drowned. The mob accused the watchman of throwing him overboard. Unable to wreak vengeance on the officers of the vessel, they marched in a body to the town and set fire to the building of Thomas Rowe, Smith & Co., the residences of W. Sander, imperial customs examiner; Howell, deputy commissioner of customs; Dr. Wales, of the Custom House; Rev. J. Grundy and several others. The consuls, fearing the attack would become general, hauled down their flags and dispatched a boat to Hong-Kong for assistance, the foreigners seeking shelter aboard the vessels in the port. A company of Chinese military was ordered out. After destroying the buildings the mob burned the steamer Launch and the steamer Haukow, and then set fire to the wharf, and afterwards proceeded to burn the French Cathedral, but the French residents, who had gathered in a body, informed the mob if they carried out their attempt the French man-of-war would anchor off the town and open fire. Telegrams were sent to the Viceroy, who ordered 3,000 troops forward to quell the disturbance. When the mob were informed of this they dispersed. British gunboats were sent from Hong Kong, but did not arrive till the trouble was over. Three Chinese were killed and one foreigner wounded.

CIVIL RIGHTS ACT UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

It is So Decided by the Supreme Court of the United States.

WASHINGTON, October 15.—A decision was rendered by the Supreme Court of the United States to-day in five civil rights cases, based on the first and second sections of the civil rights act of March 1. They are respectively prosecutions under the act for not admitting certain colored persons to equal accommodations and privileges in inns or hotels, in railroad cars and theaters. The court holds that Congress had no constitutional authority to pass the section in question, under either the Thirteenth or Fourteenth Amendments to the Constitution. The decision, however, is held to apply only to validity in States and not in territories, or the District of Columbia, where the legislative power of Congress is unlimited so far as the statutes are concerned. The two sections of law above referred to are declared unconstitutional and void. Justice Bradley rendered the opinion, Justice Harlan dissenting.

Panic Among Passengers.

BOSTON, October 15.—The steamer Julia, a small boat chartered to carry passengers for Providence, via Stonington line, attempted to enter the Stonington harbor Sunday morning and ran ashore, knocking a hole in her bottom, and causing a panic among a large number of passengers. Many donned life-preservers and prepared to jump overboard. Order was restored, and by the small boats and a revenue cutter the passengers were landed at Stonington. No one was injured. The boat was badly damaged.

An Exploded Locomotive.

PORTLAND, MAINE, October 15.—The boiler of a Grand Trunk freight locomotive exploded at Yarmouth to-day, carrying the whole top, weighing over a ton, a quarter of a mile. Engineer Pierson was slightly injured. The fireman was hurled out on the tender, but was not much hurt.

A Cheese Man Failed.

Executor vs. Administrator.

In the Probate Court this morning Judge Woerner rendered a written decision in the matter of the estate of James W. Handfield, deceased. Alexander D. Wilson, the executor nominated in the will, qualified in November, 1881. Upon notice of a contest of the will, William H. Stone was appointed administrator pendente lite. His letters were revoked in obedience to a judgment of the Circuit Court admitting the will to probate in June, 1883. On September 14, 1883, Stone filed his final settlement, to which the executor objected. The Court awards the administrator $89 56 for his services, and to Mr. Flitcraft, the attorney for the heir-at-law, $100 counsel fees, holding that such are properly chargeable to the estate.

ALL classes of want advertisements are inserted in the columns of the POST-DISPATCH, twenty words for 10 cents.

A Missing Man.

Charles F. Pohlman, a well-known grocer doing business at the northeast corner of Fifteenth and North Market streets, started down town last Thursday with about $300 in his pocket, intending to pay his liquor license. Since that time nothing has been heard of him. He did not call at the Collector's office. This afternoon a POST-DISPATCH reporter visited the store and found that the disappearance was neighborhood talk. The missing man's brother rejects the run away with a woman theory, or foul play, and inclines only to the idea that he is on a spree and will turn up as soon as his money is gone.

Construing a Will.

Judge Woerner of the Probate Court this morning rendered a written decision in the matter of the estate of Marie L. Kienlein, deceased. He holds that under the testatrix' will each of her children takes one-fourth of the estate. "It is believed that under the will the children of her deceased daughter, Adelaide, are entitled to nurture, sustenance and education until the youngest of them attains the age of 12 years, out of the estate, and that the executor having advanced his own means for this purpose is entitled to be reimbursed, and that the remainder is then to be divided as directed in the will. It appears from the inventory and other proceedings that the executor bought in the real estate, securing certain loans belonging to the estate, and now holds the property so bought, instead of the personal property inventoried. A late act of the General Assembly seems to give this property the character of real estate, and that, for this reason, there is no power in the Probate Court to make distribution of it. Hence, it will not be included in the order of distribution."

OUR NORMAL SCHOOLS.

The Model, or Training Department—Other Details.

Prof. J. P. Blanton, President of the State Normal School, Kirkville, Mo., was met this morning by a reporter of the POST-DISPATCH at the Polytechnic, where the following interview occurred:

"It is reported that you have made a new departure by establishing, in connection with the Normal, a model or training school. What do you propose to accomplish by this?"

"A model, or training school is a necessity of every properly organized Normal. In this school every student of the Normal is requested to do actual teaching for one hour per day for twenty weeks, under the criticism of the principal of this department and other members of the faculty. The efforts of the student teachers are guided, and every recitation conducted by them is criticised, so that when our students complete the prescribed course and go out into the State to teach, they have not only a theoretical knowledge of the methods of teaching and governing, but they have tested the value of these theories by actual practice in the school-room. A model school, then, you will see, is the practical department, or workshop of the Normal, and is absolutely necessary to train our students to be practical and successful teachers."

"Of what class of pupils is the model school composed and do they pay tuition?"

"The model school is composed of children from six to fourteen years of age and are required to pay a tuition fee of $2 per term, which is enough to make the department self-sustaining."

"How is your school getting on this year and what is the outlook?"

"We have in attendance nearly four hundred in all departments, which is the largest number for this early in the session that we have had for five years."

"What is the minimum age for admission into the Normal classes?"

"Sixteen years for young gentlemen and fifteen for ladies."

"Are they permitted to enter if they do not expect to make teachers of themselves?"

No, they are not. Every student that enters the normal is required to obligate himself to follow the business of teaching in the schools of Missouri. If they are not willing to do this they are not allowed to enter. We propose to do just exactly what the State expects and requires us to do.

The "Railroad" Governor.

Governor Crittenden is after all the central target of this fusilade of indignation that has emanated during the past week, from rich man, poor man, lawyer and merchant consequent upon the performances of the Board of Police Commissioners as it met last Tuesday under the new organization. The members of the board are but creatures. The Governor is the creator. Dr. Lutz, when quailing before the physique of Jack Campbell, Chief of Police, said that he had held on to him until the Governor had gone back upon him. Dr. Lutz either misstated the facts, or the Governor is personally responsible for the performance of last Tuesday afternoon, when Campbell was removed from office without excuse. A brutal majority of three to two exercised its might. The action of the Merchants' Exchange on Saturday shows how the community feels. They demand the resignation of Lutz, Caruth and Cleveland. This throws the responsibility for the state of affairs back upon the Governor. And that recalled to the mind of a POST-DISPATCH reporter a little story heard several evenings ago, which is but one of many pieces of evidence that, taken as a whole, warrant the application of the term "Railroad Governor" to Thomas T. Crittenden. Ex-Senator John G. Wear of Poplar Bluff, Mo., was known three years ago as a stalwart advocate of John S. Marmaduke for Governor. He was at that time one of the attorneys of the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad. He told the story himself to a POST-DISPATCH reporter:

"I had made one or two speeches for Marmaduke down in my county," said he, "when I received a telegram one day from Tom Thoroughman, who was then the chief attorney of the road, requesting me to report at once to the General Office. Wondering what was in the wind, I jumped upon the train at Poplar Bluff and came to St. Louis. I went to Thoroughman right away, and Tom, says I, what does this telegram mean? And he says, "You have been making Marmaduke speeches down in the South-east."

I have I say, and I am going to make another one at Frederícktown to-morrow night.'

"But you mustn't do that," he replied "Donaldson, objects to it and has spoken to Mr. Soper about it, and that is why you have been sent for." I went into Mr. Soper's office and from him learned directly that my course was distasteful to the management of the road. Marmaduke they were particularly opposed to, having the idea that while railroad commissioner he had shown himself to be hostile to the railroad interest. The conversation between us was quite breezy and concluded upon my part with the statement that I denied the right of the railroad to control either my conscience or politics, and rather than forego the speech to be made on the next night I would tender my resignation as attorney. Mr. Soper then sent for Mr. Donaldson, and the whole subject was gone over again. Mr. Allen's son-in-law was inclined to be peremptory. I told him what I had told Soper. He said that the railroads of the State did not want Marmaduke. Crittenden was their choice, and they were aiding the canvass financially. The sum of $5,000 was specifically mentioned as the contribution of the M., K. & T. road, now the Texas branch of the Missouri Pacific. The Iron Mountain Railroad had contributed a larger amount, and I gathered that every railroad in the State had contributed to a fund, in addition to instructing their employes as to what was desired from them. The resignation was not insisted upon in my case, and I made the Marmaduke speech the next night, and continued to be a Marmaduke supporter until the very last. It was two years later when I left the service of the Iron Mountain."

Judgments in the Circuit Court.

The following judgments were rendered in the Circuit Court to-day: In the case of the Franklin Avenue German Savings Institution vs. Ferdinand Noehles, against the defendant for $2,907. In the case of J. M. Valentine and others vs. A. Levy, found judgment against the defendant for $785. The case of Thomas D. Miller vs. Milton C. Brown was submitted to the court and judgment was recovered in favor of plaintiff for $1,423 95. In the case of the Samuel Bowman Distilling Company vs. Samuel Marks, judgment against defendant on first count for $351 19; on second count for $313; on third count for $255 10; on fourth count for $516 18; on fifth count for $301 50; on sixth count for $348; on seventh count for $328 10, and on eighth count for $326 62. Default and final judgment for $558 50 were awarded against the defendant in the case of L. N. Price, receiver, vs. John O'Neill. In the case of Louis Nolte vs. Henry Mueller, the plaintiff recovered judgment for $331 83. Default and judgment for $136 53 were granted against the defendant in the case of Robert Rutledge vs. Mary A. Pendleton.

Wants a Divorce.

Mrs. Mary Hahn has instituted a suit for divorce against Frederick Hahn. They were married in December 18, 1868, and lived together until June 25, 1882. The plaintiff alleges the defendant has been guilty of improper conduct with other women; that he has been habitually drunk for more than one year, and that he has struck her and applied vile epithets to her.

A TERRIBLE STORY.

A Young Girl Held Captive On a Boat for Illicit Purposes.

Deputy Sheriff Ivens, of St. Charles, Mo., was in the city this morning consulting with the police authorities relative to the arrest of two men who are charged with most heinous practices. The names of the men could not be learned, but they were expected in from Florissant to-day, and the detectives are now on the lookout for them. They are charged with keeping a young girl from Boone county, whom they induced to run away with them, on board a flat boat for indecent purposes. The men own a flat boat which they have furnished up nicely, and upon which they keep three girls. It has been their practice to tie the boat up opposite river towns and make it a place of ill-fame. They were for three weeks on the opposite side of the river from St. Charles, and when their business was discovered by the authorities, they quietly dropped down the river. It appears that the girl they took away from Boone County is the daughter of respectable parents, is about 16 years of age and very good-looking. They had evidently terrified her to such an extent that she was afraid to tell her story to any of the men she met as she might easily have been disposed of by her captors. Before they left St. Charles she told a laborer on the bank of the river that she was from Boone County, and had run away from her home, not knowing what was in store for her; that the men held her by force, and that she dared not inform on them for fear of her life. The laborer told the St. Charles authorities about the matter and they are now on the lookout for the men, whom they think they will capture. Deputy Sheriff Ivens does not think the boat is located near St. Louis, but that it has been taken a little distance down the river, where the men will join it.

ARRESTED.

The following dispatch was received from Florrisant at 3 o'clock this afternoon:

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

FLORRISANT, October 15.—Deputy Sheriff J. G. Evans, of Boone County, and Chas. Hanly, Constable of St. Ferdinand, arrested George Keen, of Columbia, Mo., for enticing Sadie Wilson, under the age of 18, from her home. Her folks are nice people, living six miles from Columbia. She is a pretty girl of 16. He had her, with others, on a flatboat at Mullanphy Island, five miles below St. Charles. The Sheriff and prisoner, with the girl, started on the Wabash Road this morning, for Columbia, where he will have to face the indictment.

SCHARF'S HISTORY.

Eleven Subscribers at the Justice's this Morning—Verdict Given.

Eleven of Scharf's subscribers had their names called in Justice Von Gerichten's court this morning at 704 South Fourth street.

Governor Charles P. Johnson and Frank Merryman represented the publishers. C. Nunz's case was the first case called. Mr. Andre, his lawyer, attempted to show that Uhrig's Cave had not been written up; that it was certainly an important place in the history of St. Louis, Mr. Andre commenting on the many attractions of this notable summer resort with an enthusiasm that would have gladdened a manager's heart and increased the number of bald heads in the front seats.

Frank Merryman objected, and read authorities to show that parole testimony was not admissible to vary a written contract. The Court sustained the objection; thereupon Gov. Johnson asked Mr. Nunz if he had signed the contract. He admitted that he had, and the Governor thereupon, after apologizing for being in a case against his old friend Nunz, asked for judgment, which was then given for the plaintiff. Four others met a similar fate, and then the remaining six ... up as one man and asked for a continuance, ... was granted.

TOM OF TEXAS.

Congressman Ochiltree Home from His European Tour.

He was Wined and Dined by the Prince of Wales—Defended the American Hog in Bismarck's Presence—Saw Irving Play and Went to the Races with Lotta.

By Telegraph to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, October 15.—Colonel Thomas Ochiltree, Member of Congress from the First District of Texas, returned from his European trip yesterday on the new steamer Oregon, along with Mrs. Langtry and her ma. A reporter met the gallant Colonel in the corridor of the Metropolitan Hotel and scarcely recognized him, so transformed was he in his dress. The flashy Texan scarf had given way to the latest Parisian fashion, his trousers fitted like the tights on a Hamlet, and a nobby Derby was tipped gently on the back of his head. The rakish air which formerly distinguished the lurid Ananias of the Pampas was missing. When accosted by the reporter and asked how he enjoyed his foreign trip, the gallant Colonel responded:

"To tell you the solemn truth, I had a royal time. Before I left Washington, where, you recollect, I had a slight discussion over my Congressional pay, which I got, you remember, I secured which introduced me to the Prince of Wales, Gladstone, Bismarck and a few others of the big guns in Europe, and I felt competent to wrestle with Neptune or any other watery or solid monster. Sea sick, sir, of course not. Tom Ochiltree never missed a meal and hadn't time to be annoyed by such little matters.

A LETTER FROM CHET. ARTHUR

"What did you do in London?"

"Well, sir, I attired myself in my finest toggery, cleaned my sparkler, set it prominently in my shirt until it shone like a locomotive headlight, and sallied forth to find His Royal Highness, as the Britishers call

THE PRINCE OF WALES.

The letter from Chest. Arthur gained me instant admission, and I was invited to indulge in a drive to the races."

"Did you accept?"

"Don't ask such a foolish question. Of course I did. The first duty of a Texan is never to refuse an eligible invitation, if the host is a Prince of blood. I went, and the way Albert and I made the money fly among the bookmakers was a caution."

"You went to Germany, I suppose?"

"Of course I did, and had a most agreeable time with Bismarck. Old 'Bis' is a thoroughbred, too. We talked about the American hog and I told the Chancellor that he had put his foot in it by his raid on the American porkers. I grew eloquent in defense of the principal staple of Cincinnati and Chicago, and if Bismarck don't take the back track I am mistaken in the man.

"So the darling Henry will soon be with us," said Mr. Ochiltree, branching suddenly into a new subject. "Irving," he continued impulsively, "is, in my estimation,

"A CONSUMMATE FRAUD.

"I do not mean to say that he is not painstaking and earnest in his endeavors. But he is not as great an actor as Edwin Booth, or Barrett, or even McCullough. I have seen him in all his plays, and I never saw one touch of genius in anything he did. He brings out his pieces in wonderful style in the way of properties, but that is all. He will, I am certain, fail to take here, save as a fashion. Ellen Terry is a good actress, but she is not equal to Rose Coghlan. Mary Anderson is making a steady success in London. She is a dear little girl, and better looking than either Langtry or Cornwallis West. But Miss Chamberlain lays over them all. She is to the English beauties like the fair moon to a tallow candle, and so American, so independent, so sturdily honest. I admire every inch of her. By the way, in Paris, and we had a great lark. Lotta was always my favorite companion when I could get the chance to share in her jolly companionship.

I TOOK LOTTA TO THE RACES

"Racing. Well, yes. I've seen all there is to see. Do you want to know the best horse in Europe to-day? His name is Barcoldine, the never beaten Irish steed. Tristan comes second in my estimation, but there is a horse in America which can run away from both of them, and his name is Eole. I hope to see them on the same track one of these days and then, mark my words, I never told a lie yet, Eole will be ahead. I think Lorillard took Iroquois over too soon. If he had waited Iroquois would have won the Goodwood. Barcoldine and Tristan were not in, and no other horse would have stood a chance.

"Politics, eh? Well, sir, Arthur is good enough for me, and I believe he is good enough for the American people to try again. He has made a splendid President. I suppose the Ohio business will wake up the Republicans, and perhaps help the party in the end. As for me, well, I am pretty well taken care of down in Texas."

"You crossed the ocean with Langtry, I believe?"

"I selected a state-room on the Oregon purely on her account. I became very friendly with the Lily, and she's a most charming woman. When Tom Ochiltree says she is charming it means a great deal, I can assure you." And the Texas ranger started for a small room, where a suspicious clinking of ivory chips told the game he was after. It was said in the reading-room of the Metropolitan, last night, that Col. Ochiltree won $2,700 at poker while beguiling the tedium of his voyage on the Oregon.

THE THEATERS.

"The Planter's Wife" has a firm hold in the hearts of St. Louisans.

Last night it was presented at Pope's for the one night only, and, although the advertising had been small, the house was crowded.

There is something remarkable about the drawing qualities of a play of this kind, something that calls for the attention of dramatists.

It is a home play, and is clean and pure.

Its characters are natural and knowable, and in Mr. Lacy's company they are given to people who can translate them.

Miss Rigl and Mr. Lacy were recalled several times.

Miss Alice Ernestine, the soubrette, was as charming as ever, and the comedian, Mr. E. A. Locke, furnished much amusement.

I understand that arrangements are being made to have the company play another week here this season.

Mr. Zimmerman, the manager, told me last night that he thought he could cancel their Cincinnati date and fill it in here.

That will be in March, and it is hoped that the play and the players will return then.

A very large house greeted Messrs. Aldrich and Parsloe last night on their first appearance here this season.

"My Partner" was received with the greatest enthusiasm, the strong scenes being loudly applauded and the actors called to the front.

The cast is almost the same as last year, and mention as to merit need hardly be made.

Aldrich is the typical Western man, honest, strong and manly. His Joe Saunders will always remain a fine picture of a type that is rapidly passing away.

The play will be repeated all week.

Wm. J. Scanlan appeared at the People's last night in "Friend and Foe."

"Friend and Foe" is a hastily dashed off effusion of Bartley Campbell.

As a drama it amounts to nothing.

As a framework for Scanlan's comedy work it is satisfactory.

He sings a great many songs under impossible circumstances, in a very happy way, and he catches the audience in a firm grip.

His audiences are composed of Emmet's patrons.

Scanlan is the Irish Emmet. He is a handsome young fellow of good presence, fine voice, and a graceful form.

He has caught Emmet's trick of playing for children.

There is no doubt that the People's Theater will be packed every night this week as it was last night.

There is a first class variety show in town.

It is at the Standard.

Tillotson & Fell's Specialty company, and Ben Cotton, of negro minstrel fame, with his family form the show.

Cotton appears in the drama "True Devotion," which is preceded by five specialty acts.

He is supported by his little daughter Idalene, who is a very fine child actress, with a rich strong voice and an ingenuous manner.

The play is a street drama, full of "Mulligan Guard" characters and flowing over with song, dance and fun.

The Standard was crowded to the doors last night, and the audience was jolly and demonstrative.

"Col. Sellers" was produced at the Olympic.

Raymond played the Colonel with his old vivacity, and his large audience was kept in roars over the great American's eccentricities.

To-night Miss Margaret Mather will appear at the Olympic as the lovely daughter of the house of Capulet.

She will be supported by Alexander Salvini and a well chosen company.

Miss Mather is a theatrical problem which has not been solved yet.

She has strong friends and a good backing, and these often carry mediocrity to the front.

The chief attraction of the week to society people is at Pope's, where Miss Georgie Cayvan and the Madison Square Company will appear in "La Belle Russe."

The play is a powerful, interesting, fascinating drama, and calls for the highest acting.

Miss Cayvan has made a success of "La Belle Russe," and the company is a first-class one.

The Fifth Street Museum was thronged last night.

There will be an unusual attraction there this week in the shape of a transparent-headed boy.

The Fourth Street Museum draws well. The mind-reading exhibitions of May Howard are marvelous. Admiral Dot and Maj. Atom appear there from this day on.

At Edwards' Fourth Street Opera House Miss Lillie Hall's Burlesque Company was met by a large audience last night.

The company and the show are good, and will no doubt be largely patronized during the week.

The first of the Washington University lectures will be delivered this evening by Prof. Snow.

It will be the first of a series of five lectures by that gentlemen on "Studies in the Low Countries," and is called "Old Flemish Towns."

The lecture will be profusely illustrated and will begin promptly at 8 o'clock, at which time all who go must be there.

The annual fair and festival of the Cathedral will be given to-morrow night at Masonic Hall.

The annual fair and festival of St. Patrick's Parish will be given in the school hall beginning to-morrow night and continuing until Friday.

Miss Margaret Mather's painting, "Francesca da Rimini," is on exhibition in the Olympic Theater building.

It is a remarkably fine piece of art, and should be seen by every one who likes a good picture.

How Shall I Get Strong Again?

Many aches and pains, long borne, make even the young feel old. The step grows slow and the heart grows hopeless. Nothing can reverse the wheels of Time, but Parker's Tonic removes the load of disease, which comes to the same thing. For dyspepsia, disordered liver and kidneys, rheumatism, and all troubles arising from an impure state of the blood, it has won the highest praise throughout the whole land.

SPORTING NEWS.

Base-Ball and Racing Events—The Pool Room Swindle—Notes.

The St. Louis Browns and the Louisville Eclipse played a poor game of ball in the cold yesterday, before about 3,000 people. The score stood 9 to 5 in favor of Louisville. Base hits: St. Louis 8, Louisville 11. Errors: St. Louis 15, Louisville 6. Runs earned: St. Louis 2.

On Saturday, the Detroits beat the Browns, by a score of 5 to 3. Base hits: Detroits 5, St. Louis 3. Errors: Detroits 4, St. Louis 8. Runs earned: Detroits 2.

The Columbus and Allegheny Clubs closed the season at the former city yesterday, the home team winning by a score of 6 to 3.

NOTES.

The wires leading from Jerome Park were tapped on Saturday, and bogus dispatches were sent, announcing false results in the races. As a result, Dick Roche loses about $330, and Sam Baldwin and his partner perhaps $800.

Tom Mansell has signed with Cincinnati, and will play them next season. He leads the association batting list, being followed by Swartwood and Stovey.

Johnston, the pacer, who did a mile in 2:10 at Chicago, has been sold to N. W. Kittson, of St. Paul, for $25,000. Kittson now owns Little Brown Jug, Fanny Witherspoon and other very fast ones.

The St. Louis Foot-ball Club won a game from the Athletics, by a score of 2 to 0, at Compton Avenue Park yesterday.

The Christian Brothers' nine were to play a team composed of old graduates, on the grounds at Cote Brilliante yesterday. The old graduates were all absent except two. Accordingly a picked nine met the Brothers' boys and were defeated by a score of 24 to 2.

Harry Wright's big nine from Providence will be here to-night and will meet the St. Louis Club in three games, beginning to-morrow afternoon. The Providence team was possibly the strongest in the league. It includes Radbourne, the big pitcher, who was hired to come here and afterwards backed out. The St. Louis Club are playing good ball now, and if they can handle Providence as they did Detroit, they will well earn the reputation of ball players.

Secretary Williams of the American Association has been engaged to manage next year's St. Louis Club. He will be here soon to consult with Chris Von der Ahe. Mr. Williams is well posted and a good manager. His salary is $2,500 for the season. "I tell you," said Mr. Von der Ahe, "base ball costs money. Do you know that the St. Louis Club of the present year cost me altogether at least $45,000? The expenses are tremendous. I cannot yet say what I will have, but if the reserved rule is broken, I'll get the best in the country." Mr. Von der Ahe also stated that Tom Mansell has not yet signed with Cincinnati, and that he would rather play here, if he is wanted.

To Repair Damages.

Dear lady, there is probably no use telling you that fashionable life in a great city is a rough one on your beauty. Late hours, loss of sleep, and mental excitement will leave you by and by shorn of those beautiful tresses which drew lovers around you in other years. Artificial substitutes can never pass for those rich and glossy locks. Parker's Hair Balsam will stop your hair from falling out, restore its natural color and softness, and prove cleansing and beneficial to the scalp.

"CHRIST'S CORNER."

ST. LOUIS, October 7, 1883.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Allow me once more to petition for a little space in your columns for my Master. I enclose a short poem blending the morning and evening texts of Sunday before last at the Third Baptist Church of this city: "Jesus Christ—the same yesterday, today and forever!" "Behold, I stand at the door and knock."

I.

'Twas midnight in my soul and all was still;
Hushed in the sleep of thoughtless youth I lay,
Wearied with pleasure, glad to drink my fill
Of soft repose, and dream the hours away—
The careless, wasteful hours of "yesterday!"
Ah, me! I little heeded while I slept
That, close beside my door, One watched and wept!

II.

He stood and knocked—an uninvited guest—
Patiently waiting till my dream should end,
Though sometimes, when the call disturbed my rest,
Half waking, I would chide that Loving Friend.
"Leave me in peace; I cannot now attend
On such untimely visitor. Depart!
There is no room for Thee within my heart!"

III.

Lo! it is past—that "yesterday" of youth—
And all its pleasures, all its dreams are fled.
How worthless now the shams I prized as truth!
Fancy's gay flowers—how colorless and dead!
While deep within me dwells the awful dread,
Lest He whom yesterday I dared to spurn,
Hath left my door, nor ever to return!

IV.

Wilt Thou not once more knock, oh, Savior mine?
Only once more, and I will let Thee in
How willingly! and Thou shalt make me Thine,
And cleanse me in Thy precious blood from sin.
Ah! knock again, and, 'mid the clanging din
Of worldly tumult, I shall hear Thy call,
And open wide the door, my Lord, my all!

V.

"Oh, thou of little faith," I hear Him say,
"Why didst thou doubt, or deem that I could change?
I am the same to-day as yesterday,
And through eternity's unbounded range!
I am the One who came to die for thee;
Behold, I knock! come, open unto Me!"

VI.

The door is open, now, and He is there,
Upon the threshold of my longing heart,
Yearning with Him the feast of love to share,
To twine around Him lest He should depart!
Come in, my Lord, all lovely as Thou art!
Nought from my clinging soul Thy love shall sever!
Live thou within mine inmost life forever!

A Warm House-Warming.

The most thorough house-warming on record was the one which occurred at the residence of Mr. August Nieman on Chippewa and Missouri avenues. Mr. Nieman had just completed his house Saturday, and Sunday evening the event was celebrated by a gathering and a dance. At 3 o'clock this morning the house was burned to the ground. A policy of $500 covers the loss.

GOETHE AND HEINE.

Heine's account of his visit to Goethe is certainly one of the most charming pictures in all literature: "When I visited him at Weimar and stood before him I involuntarily glanced at his side, to see whether the eagle was not there, with lightning in his beak. I was nearly speaking Greek to him; but as I observed that he understood German I stated to him in German that the plums on the road between Jena and Weimar were very good. I had for so many long winter nights thought over what profound and lofty things I would say to Goethe if I ever saw him: and when I saw him at last I said to him that the Saxon plums were very good! And Goethe smiled."

It seems to us that if gentle Heine had been as appropriately and attractively attired as we usually fit out the many Clergymen, Doctors, Lawyers, Business Men, and scores of others in the various walks of life who honor us with their patronage, he would have been so self-possessed and at ease that his natural urbanity of manners, together with his good-fitting clothes, would certainly have pleased, if not delighted, even profound Goethe.

Have you, young man, or you, much older man, any ambition to carve out firm places for your feet a Little Higher Up the mountain side of life? If so, always remember that good (they need not be fine or costly) and becoming Clothes will ASSIST you greatly in climbing. A sweeter singer than either Goethe or Heine tells us, and truly, too, that

"Our outward consciences admonishing
That we should dress us fairly."

TRUSTEES' SALES.

TRUSTEE'S SALE.—Whereas, James Tully, by his certain deed of trust, dated June 24, 1881, recorded in the Recorder's office of St. Louis city, Missouri, in book 657, page 230, conveyed to the undersigned trustee the following described real estate, to-wit:

A certain lot or parcel of ground situated in block No. four (4) in the first series of said city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, bounded and described as follows, to-wit: Commencing at a stone on the corner of the building on the southeast corner of Solomon H. Robbins' northeastern quarter of said block; thence running southwardly twelve and one-half (12½) feet, fronting on Thirteenth street; thence westwardly, running with the division wall of two brick houses erected by William Tully and one John F. Petzold seventy feet to one Louis Bardelmeyer's lot; thence northwardly twelve and one-half (12½) feet on a parallel line with Thirteenth street; and thence eastwardly seventy feet to the place of beginning.

In trust to secure the payment of a certain note described in said deed. And whereas said note has long since become due and remains unpaid. Now, therefore, at the request of the legal holder of said note, I, the undersigned trustee, will, in pursuance of the terms of said deed of trust, sell said real estate at public vendue, to the highest bidder, for cash, at the eastern front door of the Court House in said city of St. Louis, between the hours of 10 o'clock a. m. and 5 o'clock p. m., on for the purposes of said trust.

WEDNESDAY, THE 17TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1883,

St. Louis September 25 1883. LORENZ J. HOHL.

WHEREAS Christian F. Krull and Elizabeth G. Krull, his wife, by their certain deed of trust, dated October 8, 1881, and recorded in book 666, page 189, of St. Louis City Records, conveyed to the undersigned trustee the following described real estate, with the improvements thereon, lying and being in the city of St. Louis, State of Missouri, to-wit: A lot of ground in city block No. 253, being described as follows: beginning on the south side of Wash street one hundred and thirty-five (135) feet east of Tenth street, running along the south line of Wash street twenty (20) feet, thence southwardly one hundred feet to an alley 12 feet wide, thence westwardly twenty (20) feet, and thence northwardly one hundred (100) feet to the place of beginning, and being the same property acquired by James Long from Archy J. Robertson, and conveyed by said Long to the said Christian F. Krull, which conveyance was made in trust to secure the payment of certain notes described in said deed; And whereas it is provided in said deed that the failure of the parties of the first part to pay any of said notes, principal or interest when due, shall at the option of the party of the third part cause the principal notes aforesaid to become immediately due and payable, though not then due by the tenor thereof, and the said property be then sold; And whereas several of said notes are past due and unpaid; Now, therefore, at the request of the legal holder of said notes, I will sell said property at public vendue and for cash, at the eastern front door of the Court House in the said city of St. Louis, on between the hours of 10 o'clock in the forenoon and 3 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, for the purposes of said trust. CHARLES A. DAVIS, Trustee.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 6TH, 1883,
